Military Resignation Rumors Startle England.

Ramblings.

MINISTERIAL CRISIS IS HINTED IN THE LOBBY.

Government Reported to Have Brought Pressure on Chief of the Imperial Staff to Force Him Out.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Feb. 13.—During and after the debate in the House of Commons, the lobbies teemed with rumor. The sensational talk centered mainly around the possibility of military resignations and a ministerial crisis. As the lobbies eventually were cleared without any of the rumors being substantiated.

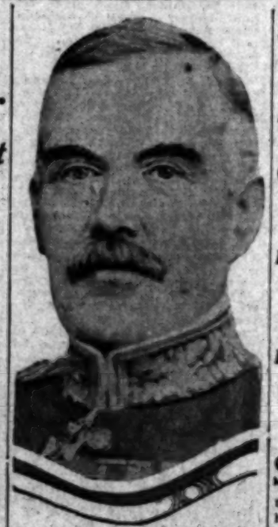
The morning newspapers reproduce some of those stories. The Daily News says those in the House of Commons believe that on Monday night the government put pressure upon Gen. Sir William Robertson, Chief of the Imperial General Staff, with a view to inducing him to resign, it being to replace him as Chief-Gen. Sir Henry Wilson, the British representative on the Versailles council. The Daily Chronicle recalled the statement, the newspaper adds, that the government on Tuesday was considering removing Gen. Sir William Robertson.

The Daily Chronicle, which hints at possible military and political changes, says that Gen. Wilson is in London now on important business.

The Morning Post quotes a lobby correspondent as stating that a crisis has arisen over Gen. Robertson's retention by the Cabinet, which may have serious consequences for the latter.

The rumors affect Field Marshal Haig, the British commander-in-chief, less than they do Gen. Robertson. Hostile critics of the government like the Post and News say Premier Lloyd George failed to exert his usual power over the House and that the War Cabinet has lost prestige in all parties.

The Times says the debate worked a definite change in relations between the government and the opposition and adds that rightly or wrongly ex-Premier Asquith, as the result of his speech, was hailed as the rising hope of a peace party which apparently expects to reinforce its numbers under cover of the cry of "support the soldiers."



Gen. Sir William Robertson, Chief of the Imperial British Staff, against whom pressure is said to have been brought by the Lloyd George government to force him to resign. The general has refused to resign and a ministerial crisis is said to be incubating.

NAME HAYS G.O.P. HEAD

Chairman Chosen by Committee.

Iowa's Candidate Withdraws in Favor of Indiana Leader to Insure Harmony.

Letter Written from Germany Causes Retirement of Leading Aspirant for Place.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 13. — Will H. Hays of Indiana, elected chairman of the Republican National Committee here today, will have a free hand in bringing about harmony for the next attack on the Democratic citadel, according to weary committeemen, who rested from their labors tonight.

The committee eliminated the entire Executive Committee so as to make a clean job of providing the party with new leadership.

A. T. Hert, representing Kentucky, said that from what he knew of Hays's energy it would not be long before the committee was called together to act with the chairman in selecting a new Executive Committee.

The recommendations of the old Executive Committee calling for an advisory committee of women and continuing the old Hughes campaign committee were ignored, in order not to bind Mr. Hays in any way as to his staff.

SUFFRAGE PLANS.

There was considerable objection to limiting the matter of the committee of the women, but Rudolph K. Hynicka of Ohio, where woman suffrage was recently defeated, was firm in his contention that the matter could safely be left to Mr. Hays. None of the suffragists who addressed the committee yesterday was present. They were chiefly interested in obtaining a pledge for the federal amendment and this the committee gave in adopting the resolution made public by the Executive Committee yesterday.

The resolutions pledging support to the Wilson administration in pressing the war, expressing gratitude and affection for Theodore Roosevelt and paying tribute to Lincoln were also adopted.

The resolution presented yesterday by Mayor William Hale Thompson of Chicago, upholding the right of free speech and attacking the search and seizure act under which the government is attacking the I.W.W. and other alleged menaces, was not reported out by the committee.

PENROSE STATEMENT.

Senator Boies Penrose, before departing for Washington, issued the following statement:

"Republicans throughout the country will be sincerely gratified to learn that the National Committee adjourned with complete harmony prevailing on every side. The discussion relating to the various matters coming before the committee, and particularly to the question of the chairmanship, was conducted in an amicable spirit, without any factional division and with the single view to party unity and party success. Mr. Hays has been chairman of the Republican State Committee of Indiana in several hard-fought battles resulting in Republican success and he has the reputation of being one of the best political organizers in the country. He seems to have the peculiar qualifications required at this time and he will have the full co-operation of the National Committee."

OTHER OFFICERS.

Fred W. Upham of Chicago, who has been western treasurer for several terms, was elected treasurer over George R. Sheldon of New York. Edward P. Thayer, Indiana, was elected sergeant-at-arms to succeed the late William F. Stone.

Guy F. Howard, Minnesota, and Charles H. Henning, West Virginia, were elected assistants to Mr. Thayer. The election of James B. Reynolds by a committee some time ago as secretary of the committee was ratified.

John T. Adams, who, after a long debate, withdrew as a candidate for chairman, leaving the field to Mr. Hays, was chosen vice-chairman at the same meeting which made Reynolds secretary, but the matters of his ratification did not come up. However, it was said that he remains vice-chairman. The chairmanship probably will be taken up at the first meeting called by Mr. Hays.

Mr. Adams was the first candidate in the field for the chairmanship. He credited George W. Perkins with promoting a propaganda of pro-Germanism against him. Even his enemies did not question his present Americanism, but held that at this time no man who had at any time showed the least friendship for the "Hun" could serve the party as chairman. The pledges for and against him were deadlocked until within a half hour of the meeting. Then he verbally announced his withdrawal "in the interests of harmony."

The committee voted that it should hold meetings at least once a year.

BRITISH STAFF CHIEF MAY VACATE POST.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LEADS IN WAR POLICIES.

Camp Lewis has Highest Percentage of Insurance—Gambling is Taboo.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CAMP LEWIS (Wash.) Feb. 12.—Brig.-Gen. F. S. Foltz tonight received a telegram from the war risk insurance office at Washington announcing that Camp Lewis leads the cantonments with a total of 97 per cent. of the men insured.

"Gambling undermines the morale of the command and cannot be tolerated," is the official edict from the office of Brig.-Gen. Foltz, and as a result hereafter games of penny-ante and blackjack are taboo. Gambling is declared to have paved the way for several court-martial cases at Camp Lewis, and it is believed this is the reason for the order.

Orders have come from the quarter-master general directing that Jewish troops be furnished with "matzos" or unleavened bread, at the rate of a pound a day for each man, from March 27 to April 4. Orders have also been issued to excuse Seventh Day Adventists from drill from sunset Friday evening to sunset Saturday evening.

ELKO (Nev.) Feb. 13.—Nine persons were injured in the wreck near here today when a special train carrying Dutch colonists crashed head-on with an east-bound passenger train on the Southern Pacific Railroad. Five of the Hollanders and four dining-car employees were those hurt. The colonists were en route to Java from Holland by way of New York and San Francisco.

SWISS PRESS LAUDS PRESIDENT'S SPEECH.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

BERNE (Switzerland) Feb. 12.—The Swiss newspapers comment on President Wilson's address to Congress in most favorable terms. The Berne Bund says:

"The word of the United States sounds more clearly and rises higher than the rhetoric of European statesmen. Passionate love of justice and freedom permeate President Wilson's speech and portray America's attitude."

The Neue Zuricher Nachrichten says that President Wilson's speech can result in events of decisive importance.

SHIP TOLL ENORMOUS.

Loss Trebles Two Nations' Output.

Amazing Disclosures for the Year 1917 Made by Bonar Law.

Nineteen British Merchantmen Sunk During the Past Week.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—Ship tonnage sunk by submarines in 1917 was nearly three times as great as the total of production in the United States and Great Britain during that year.

This was disclosed today by the announcement of Andrew Bonar Law, Chancellor of the Exchequer, in the British House of Commons, that Great Britain produced only 1,163,474 tons of shipping last year. The output in the United States was 981,223 tons, making a total combined tonnage of 2,064,697, while sinkings by submarines last year generally are reckoned at 6,000,000 tons.

While complete figures on construction in Japan, Italy, France and other nations in 1917 are not yet available, officials here do not believe their aggregate equalled the total of the United States. If that is the case, submarine sinkings more than doubled all new tonnage produced.

Both American and British officials expect a different story in 1918, however. The United States and Great Britain are speeding up their shipping programmes and naval officials in both countries have confidently predicted that the submarine will be curbed this summer.

Secretary Daniels believes that effectual results will be obtained in the early summer. Admiral Sir John R. Jellicoe, former chief of the British naval staff, recently predicted that by August, it could be said that the "submarine menace is killed." However, he predicted dark months before that time.

The output of ship tonnage in the United States in 1918 has been variously estimated at from 2,500,000 tons to 4,000,000 tons, with Shipping Board officials confident that at least 3,500,000 tons will be completed. No estimate of Great Britain's output has been received, but that country is expected to materially increase its 1917 figures.

Japan's operations just now are hampered by lack of steel, but this handicap is expected soon to be overcome, and that country also is expected to increase its output this year. Other countries are building few ships.

WEEKLY REPORT.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Feb. 13.—Nineteen British merchantmen were sunk by mine or submarine in the past week, according to the Admiralty statement tonight. Of these thirteen were vessels of 1600 tons or more and six were under that tonnage. Three fishing craft also were sunk.

The loss to British shipping in the past week shows a considerable increase over that of the previous week which totaled fifteen vessels, ten of them over 1600 tons. In the preceding three weeks, the losses were eight, eight and fifteen respectively.

BRITISH STATISTICS.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Feb. 13.—During 1917 there was built in Great Britain 1,163,474 tons of shipping and 170,000 tons were secured abroad, Mr. Bonar Law announced today in the House of Commons.

ASK DEATH FOR BOLO.

Proved a Traitor, State Asserts.

Receipt of Money from Bernstorff Warrants Penalty, Contends Prosecutor.

Courtroom Packed at Closing Scenes of French Trial for Treason.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PARIS, Feb. 13.—Capt. Mornet, prosecutor in the court-martial of Bolo Pasha on the charge of treason, today began the summing up of the government's case. He pointed out that the mere fact that Bolo Pasha received money from Count von Bernstorff, the former German Ambassador at Washington, through Adolph Pavenstedt, the former head of the Amsinck banking house of New York, was sufficient grounds for asking for a death sentence even though the money was not used against France. Consequently, Capt. Mornet said, he would ask for the death penalty.

The government counsel referred to Bolo Pasha's relations with Fernand Monier, ex-president of the Paris Court of Appeals, and former Premier Joseph Caillaux. The prosecutor declared the Bolo Pasha case was preliminary to other trials.

CROWD AT TRIAL.

The crowd which packed the courtroom to hear Prosecutor Mornet sum up the State's case against Bolo Pasha broke all previous records at the trial. The proceedings were reopened belatedly with the people massed to suffocation. The spectators were perched on chairs, desks and radiators or seated on the floor. A famous Parisian actresses sharing the benches with society leaders.

The crowd at the outset, however, was doomed to disappointment, for the prosecutor, instead of summing up, read a letter from Premier Clemenceau, announcing that two documents sent in August and September, 1917, by Prosecuter Mornet to Minister of War Painleve, referred to in the proceedings yesterday, would be placed at the disposal of the defense. This was considered to be a point for the defense, as the state had bitterly opposed the publication of the papers.

JUDGE CALLED.

A second disappointment for the spectators came when Capt. Bouchardon was called as an additional witness, for it was Bouchardon who prepared the case against Bolo and his appearance was roughly equivalent under the American law to the calling of a preliminary trial judge against the defendant in a higher court.

Capt. Bouchardon related the delay which had been placed in his way in preparing the Bolo Pasha case by the former Ministry of War, which, he said, had withheld the documents from April to September, 1917.

Capt. Bouchardon expressed thanks for the co-operation given him by the government of the United States.

M. Mornet spoke only a few words concerning Darius Porchere, a co-defendant with Bolo Pasha. He said he did not ask the death penalty for Porchere, since he played an entirely secondary role in the affair. The prosecutor seemed to attach little importance to Porchere's activities, though he claimed he was perfectly aware of the nature of the business he had engaged in at the request of Bolo.

GOOD SERIES OF SHOWERS IN NORTHERN CALIFORNIA

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Feb. 13.—A good series of showers has come in off the ocean over nearly the whole of Northern California during the day.

The Weather Bureau predicts a continuation of the rain tomorrow, with a probability that the unsettled conditions also may obtain in the southern part of the State.

It snowed heavily throughout the mountain districts today. There is very little snow in the mountains now, and much concern is expressed that unless much more falls there will be little storage water for irrigation and electrical purposes next summer.

SONORA TROOPS REBEL AGAINST GOV. CALLES.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NOGALES (Ariz.) Feb. 13.—Two thousand Mexican troops in Sonora are rebelling against Gov. Calles, according to rumors reaching here.

Troops stationed at Cananea and Agua Prieta and soldiers recently sent to Sonora from Chihuahua to battle Yaquais are reported included in the rebellion.

Gov. Calles arrived at Nogales, Sonora, tonight from Cananea with an escort of about fifty soldiers.

RENEWAL OF THE FRAY ON WESTERN FRONT.

British in Hand-to-hand Engagement with the Invaders—Fighting at Lens and Peronne.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PARIS, Feb. 13.—A big raid was carried out today by the French southwest of Butte Mesnil. The German positions were entered up to the third line and many defenses and shelters were destroyed.

This announcement was made by the War Office in its regular communication tonight, the text of which says:

"In the Champagne we carried out a big raid near Butte Mesnil, on a front of about 1200 meters. Our detachments penetrated the German positions as far as the third line, overthrew the enemy defenses and destroyed numerous shelters. We captured more than 100 prisoners.

"From February 1 to 10 our pilots brought down twenty-eight German airplanes.

"Eastern theater, February 12: Artillery actions occured at the mouth of the Struma, west of Doiran and north of Monastir. Allied aviators successfully bombarded Savjak, northwest of Seres, Kostovo, the railway between Strumnitza and Doiran and enemy encampments in the Cerna Valley."

HEADQUARTERS OF THE FRENCH ARMIES IN FRANCE, Feb. 13. —German preparations for their announced offensive on the Allied front have not brought with them any relaxation of German vigilance or efforts to meet any possible attack from the Allies. New concentrations of German forces are gathered in the rear of their lines simultaneously with the hard work which continues on the front line positions, where a most formidable system of defences has been erected during the winter months.

Various authorities make widely different estimates of the number of German divisions which eventually may be brought into the line on this front, should the Germans decide to engage in battle on a large and decisive scale. The exact total of the German forces in the front line and in the immediate reserve is known to a unit.

One hundred and twelve divisions occupy the German front line facing the French, British, American and Belgian troops, while their immediate reserves total sixty-three divisions.

(On the basis of 12,000 men in a German division, this would be 2,100,000 men.)

Possibly several additional divisions have reached various points behind the lines, but the fact has not been established with certainty. At any rate, it is agreed by authorities here that the greatest possible number the Germans could add to their forces on this side does not exceed twenty divisions, which would bring the total to 132 divisions (2,340,000 men.)

BRITISH OFFENSIVE.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

BERLIN (via LONDON) Feb. 13.—(British Admiralty per Wireless Press.) Heavy hand to hand fighting has occurred north of Lens and around Peronne, according to the official statement from general headquarters today, the British undertaking strong reconnoitering expeditions, which headquarters reports were repulsed.

The text of the statement reads:

"Western theatre: Fronts of Crown Prince Rupprecht and the German Crown Prince: Strong enemy reconnoitering detachments north of Lens and north of Omignon Brook (near Peronne) were repulsed in hand to hand fighting. Otherwise the activity was limited to minor reconnoitering engagements. There was artillery action on isolated sectors.

"Fronts of Grand Duke Albrecht: After a violent increase of the firing between Filrey and the Moselle, several French companies attacked our lines near Remenauville and in the western part of Prifater Wood. After a short fight, the enemy was repulsed with heavy losses; some prisoners remained in our hands.

"There have been artillery and mine firing duels on Sudelkopf and Hartmanna Weilerkopf (Alsace.)

The Coming Storm.

PARIS BELIEVES GERMAN OFFENSIVE IS IMMINENT.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PARIS, Feb. 13.—Every indication seems to point that the Central Empires' offensive is on the eve of beginning. Much has been said and written here as to when and how the attack would start, and it was thought there would be one principal attack, with the intention of breaking through the lines at any cost.

This attack possibly will be followed by two or three minor ones, so as to enable the attacking troops to organize the conquered ground, for the Germans, it appears, have made all preparations to occupy and consolidate parts of the Allies' line.

But the French and British troops are constantly on the watch and every day the Germans delay starting the attack means a heavier task, accompanied by huge losses for them.

By this way of attacking the Franco-British lines it is presumed the entire front, from the sea to the Swiss border, will be active, with many heavy fights. Such a thing hasn't yet occurred in nearly four years of war.

Even this afternoon French and British official bulletins report much raiding on both sides, the more important from the German side. Possibly these feelers are a prelude to the storm.

British guns are keeping up a heavy fire on the enemy positions and at times, when weather conditions are favorable, the sound of heavy guns reaches Paris and is plainly audible.

Interview.

PREDICTS A MONARCHY FOR THE SLAV NATION.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

AMSTERDAM, Feb. 13. — The Berlin Tageblatt's correspondent, Leonard Adell, telegraphing from the Austrian war press headquarters last Monday, says concerning Russia's withdrawal from the war:

"Long before Trotzky's declaration of peace, the Russian demobilization had begun. On the Ukranian-Rumanian border region we encountered eighteen corps of the Eighth Russian Army under Gen. Sytin, who made the last effort to break through the Rumanian front, but was repulsed there and crossed the Austrian frontier near Radautz.

"Sytin, who is a grizzled veteran, said to me: 'Russia is very sick. Like a bear which has had a hard whack on the head, she has lost much blood. But she is only stunned and will soon recover. Russia soon will have another monarchical government. Believe me, that is what Russia is longing for.

"'As for Lenine and Trotzky, I like them personally. It is very interesting to talk with them about big world problems in front of a cosy fire; but you cannot do anything with them in the practical affairs of life. The best thing the Bolsheviki have done is the abolition of secret diplomacy, which was responsible for the war.

"'It is by no mere chance the Ukraine was the first territory to make peace. The Ukraine is most strongly anti-Bolshevik, and the movement will soon assume still more tangible shape.'"

ITALIANS TORPEDO BIG [illegible]

PARIS, Feb. 13.—The Italian naval general staff, according to a Havas dispatch from Rome, announces that Italian torpedo boats forced their way on the night of February 11, west of Dalmatia, into the Bay of Buccari, near Fiume, and torpedoed the largest of the steamers anchored there.

Germany's Peace Victory Over Bolshevik Government Held Likely to Prove Boomera

FREED WAR PRISONERS MAY START PROPAGANDA

Anti-Ruler Doctrines of New Russia Unwelcome in Germany—Wheat Fields will be Hard to Reach.

BY ARTHUR S. DRAPER.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, Feb. 13.—Germany's peace victory is likely to prove a boomerang. A high authority on commercial and economic relations has supplied me with some facts apropos the situation provided by the action of the Bolshevik government in withdrawing from the war.

Not before the end of the next harvest can Russia give material help to the Central Powers—and not then unless meanwhile the Germans succeed in reorganizing the country's transportation facilities. My informant states that although the grain harvest of the Ukraine was considerable last year, the breakdown in the machinery for collecting and storing wheat means that the Germans will have to organize a farm collection and that is a practically hopeless job because of the shortage of male labor.

The much more distant wheat lands in Russia are not under cultivation. As a result the harvest has dropped far below normal. The Russian rolling stock has suffered frightfully and a well known and eminent engineer is authority for the statement that it will take at least a year to put it on even a pre-war basis.

The German freight cars and locomotives are showing signs of constant use and inadequate repairs. When recently Germany sold coal to Denmark, one provision of the agreement was that the Danes sent labor to mine the coal and the rolling stock to transport it. The broader gauge of the Russian railways means that Germany, would have to lay another rail before she could utilize these road beds.

SUPPLIES UNLIMITED.

Russia can provide Germany with lumber and minerals in unlimited quantities, but not until transportation is recognized. Contrary to the general belief Germany has no great supply of manufactured articles on hand with which to supply Russia. The fact that the Scandinavian countries have frequently tried in vain to get certain articles formerly supplied by Germany, shows that the shortage of labor, lack of raw materials and inadequate transportation are great handicaps to the enemy manufacturers. If Germany had been able to supply these articles, she could have raised the value of the mark in the Scandinavian countries.

Within the Central Powers there are about 2,000,000 Russian prisoners, while Russia holds about 100,000 Germans and approximately 1,000,000 Austro-Hungarians. Whether the Central Powers, especially Germany, would welcome back these prisoners who have been living in the Bolshevik atmosphere remains to be seen. That these prisoners will influence the military situation in the West is considered extremely doubtful.

HOPES FOR CHAOS.

Germany hopes that conditions in Russia will continue so chaotic that eventually she will be asked to step in and set the country to right. German commercial penetration in Russia, however, is not feared so long as the war lasts, though the enemy will no doubt attempt to open trade relations immediately. During the war Russia's exports dropped about a quarter of the pre-war figures, and during the last two years they have been practically nil. Before the war the bulk of her trade was across the western frontier, but since the war it has naturally passed through Finland.

Until a representative and authoritative government exists in Russia, Germany will have to gamble whenever she makes a business deal. The same thing holds for the Allies, and even to a greater extent, for it is beyond denial that neither America nor Britain is popular with the Bolsheviki.

OF LITTLE VALUE.

Those in the best position to judge consider that Russia will be of little value to Germany this year, and she may prove a considerable burden for the militarists.

President Wilson's address to Congress on the eve of the opening of Parliament has made an exceptionally good impression here, practically all shades of newspaper opinion indorsing the terms as he outlined them. It is generally considered the clearest of his war speeches and as such only one interpretation is placed upon it.

"The President's address contains no change in policy; the unanimity of the British press must be considered proof that some of the organs have changed their tune. His latest utterance has drawn Britain and America closer together, and their influence in the rest of the world is bound to be great. That the Allies will soon make a joint statement of their war aims can be prophesied with considerable assurance. The poorly-worded statement following the Versailles conference gave an entirely wrong impression as I reported it last week. Those in authority here regret exceedingly that it is open to the interpretations put upon it in many quarters.

The President's address is indorsed in the highest circles; though some statesmen fail to share his faith, they have no alternative policy to offer and, therefore, are prepared to give his scheme a fair test. That marks a distinctive gain for the diplomatic offensive.

Lloyd George.

that such tactics would meet with considerable support.

IGNORES PRESIDENT'S SPEECH.

Perhaps the most notable thing was the contrast in the speeches of the Premier and the former Premier with reference to President Wilson's speech. While Mr. Asquith indorsed fully the President's view, Premier Lloyd George did not even mention Mr. Wilson's last speech and declined to see in Count Czernin's statement any nearer approach to reasonable terms than in Count Von Hertling's.

Morever, the Premier regarded the German Chancellor's demand that Great Britain give up her coaling stations as proving fully that the controllers of German policy were in no mood to discuss reasonable terms of peace.

Declaring absolutely that he would not yield on the matter of revealing more about the Versailles conference, Premier Lloyd George challenged the house, if dissatisfied with the government's conduct of the war, to put another government in its place.

RUNS FIRE OF HECKLING.

The question of enlarging on the status of the Versailles council led to a little scene between the Premier and Mr. Asquith and throughout his remarks about the council the Premier was subjected to a running fire of heckling, punctuated with loud cheers from extreme Liberals, many of whom in subsequent speeches made strong attacks on the Premier regarding his alleged connection with the press.

Lord Hugh Cecil, member for Oxford University, admitted the Premier's speech was reassuring but said that the weakness of the government lay in the existence of coincidences between utterances in the press and certain lines of governmental action. He hoped the government would not hesitate to suppress, if necessary, event the most influential journals acting contrary to the national interests.

SLAP AT SECRETARIES.

Admiral Sir Hedworth Meux invited the Premier to get rid of his private secretaries and also the press which was hanging around his neck "like an albatross."

While the Versailles conference was under discussion the Premier also was met by constant cries of "Don't divulge."

At one point Andrew Bonar Law, Chancellor of the Exchequer, interposed to deny that Field Marshal Haig or Gen. Robertson had been dismissed or resigned. Being closely pressed by a heckler, he added: "As far as I know."

The House then adjourned and thus far no motion of want of confidence in the government has been placed on paper.

AS TO HERTLING.

As to the reply of Chancellor Von Hertling, Premier Lloyd George said:

"What was his answer to the Allies' very moderate demands? His answer was that Great Britain was to give up her coaling stations.

"These coaling stations had been as accessible to Germans as to British ships. In the past, the German fleet always has received most hospitable treatment at all these stations. During 1913 some sixty-five visits were paid to them by German men-of-war and they received exactly the same facilities as British men-of-war. The same thing applied to German merchantmen.

"To make such a demand for the first time in the fourth year of the war is the best possible proof that the German empire, or those at present controlling it, is not in a mood to discuss reasonable terms of peace.

"I regret it profoundly, but there is no use in crying, 'peace' when there is no peace.

FINDS NO BASIS FOR PEACE.

"These terms were examined carefully and were examined with a real desire to find something in them which indicated the Central Powers were prepared to come somewhere near a basis of agreement and I confess the examination of these two speeches proved profoundly disappointing to those who were sincerely anxious to find any real and genuine desire for peace in them.

"The action of Germany with reference to Russia proves that all her declarations about no annexations, indemnities or contributions have no real meaning.

"No answer has been given with regard to Belgium which any one can regard as satisfactory.

"No answer has been given with regard to Poland or the legitimate French claim for the restoration of her lost provinces.

"Not a word is said about the men of the Italian race and tongue now under the Austrian yoke.

TURKEY.

"When you come to Turkey, so far from Von Hertling or Czernin indicating they were prepared to recognize the rights of the Arabs in Mesopotamia and Arabia, it was a pure denial of those rights and an indication that they were determined to maintain what they called the intergrity of Turkey.

"I should like any member of this House to point out anything in these speeches which he could possibly regard as proof that the Central Powers are prepared to make peace on terms he would regard as just and reasonable. I fail to find anything of the kind and it is with the most profound regret that I say so.

NO RECESSION IN AIMS.

"But the government does not recede in the least from the statement of the war aims they already have made. Until there is some better proof than is supplied by the speeches of the statesmen of the Central Powers that they are prepared to consider them, it will be our regrettable duty to continue making all preparations necessary, in order to establish international rights."

Premier Lloyd George then turned to the question of the Versailles conference and said he was not prepared to enlarge upon the extended duties of that body. He said it was giving no military information to say that until the present year the Allies had had a preponderance on the western front and no attack which the Germans could bring to bear upon the British or French armies could fail to have been dealt with in the main by the reserves of the respective armies.

"That situation is entirely changed," he said. "If we had not dealt with that situation we should have been guilty of gross dereliction of duty."

Contrasting previous councils with that at Versailles, the Premier emphasized the fact that at Versailles the civilian and military members were sitting together—the prime ministers, the commanders-in-chief and the chiefs of staff of three countries. The discussion was absolutely free and there was complete unanimity reached. There was no division of opinion upon any resolution arrived at.

TO REVEAL, TREASON.

"I must speak cautiously," the Premier continued, "because military decisions are involved. To give away such information (concerning the enlargement of the duties of the Versailles council) is treason beyond description and I decline to do it. There is no army whose security more depends upon these decisions being carried out than the British army."

Some commotion was caused in the House by the Premier's refusal to give more details of the Versailles conference.

In conclusion Premier Lloyd George said that if the House and the country are dissatisfied with the conduct of the war and if they think there is any government that can conduct it better it was their business to put the other government into power.

HOUSE ADDS MILLION FOR AVIATIO NBASE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Feb. 13.—In the consideration of the naval appropriation bill by the House Committee on Naval Affairs, after a long wrangle, the Navy Department's sponsors on the committee agreed to an additional appropriation for naval aviation base at North Island of $1,000,000.

This makes appropriations for this project now available for improvements $1,750,000, and insures a flying base at San Diego second to none in the world.

With the expenditure of over $2,000,000 by the army in improving its part of the island, the greatest work in the development of battle plane progress in the army and navy will be concentrated in San Diego.

VICTIMS OF TUSCANIA BURIED IN SCOTLAND.

Hundred Sixty-four Americans Interred in Cemetery Near Coast; Thirty-three Bodies Unidentified.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

A SCOTCH SEAPORT, Tuesday, Feb. 12.—Up to Tuesday night, a week after the disaster, 171 victims of the ill-fated Tuscania had been laid to rest at different points on the Scottish coast. These were divided as follows:

American — One hundred and thirty-one identified and thirty-three unidentified; crew—four identified and three unidentified.

The Associated Press correspondent co-operated with the American army officers in obtaining these figures, which go forward to Washington as the most accurate and complete list obtainable. The last seventeen of these bodies recovered were all Americans and were buried this afternoon, villagers again coming many miles in a downpour of rain to pay their simple tribute to the American dead. The bodies were brought to the burial place on one big motor truck, which was followed along the route several miles long by the squad of twenty-five khaki-clad American survivors and the village mourners. One of the villagers carried the Union Jack, while an American soldier held aloft the Stars and Stripes.

CEREMONIES.

At the gradeside the American soldiers sang the "Star Spangled Banner," followed by the natives singing "God Save the King." The usual military salute was then fired, ending the ceremony. Temporary fences have been built around the graves, to be replaced by a permanent inclosure as soon as the materials can be brought to these desolate shores. A British colonel, who has worked day and night since the disaster helping the Americans bury their dead, announced today that the people of the near-by countryside had started a public subscription to erect a permanent monument to the Americans.

There are eight Americans still here, too ill to leave, several of them still dazed by their experiences. They are quartered in nearby farmhouses and village hotels. These men are: F. B. Reed, W. Lystrom, Wilbur C. Nutt, Boyd E. Hancock, E. E. Harpham, Henry Schorting, James J. Colwell and F. A. Gocher.

One American officer and fourteen men are still in a hospital at Glasgow.

TOTAL DEAD BELIEVED 267.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—With 164 American soldiers of the Tuscania known to be dead and buried on the Scottish coast, an unofficial estimate today places the total loss of American troops at 267. After eliminating from the passenger list the names of the survivors, and the identified dead, and accounting for thirty-three unidentified dead, 136 soldiers still are not accounted for and it is believed they were lost.

The partial list of the Tuscania's dead, sent by the Associated Press correspondent from a Scottish seaport today, as having been buried on the Scottish coast, is the first definite information to reach relatives of the soldiers who have not been reported in the lists of survivors.

War Department officials have been helpless to answer appeals for information regarding soldiers unreported.

Of the 164 American dead who have been buried in Scotland it was not possible to identify thirty-three of the soldiers. Of the names of the 121 soldiers sent from Scotland only 122 have been definitely located and of the five compiled by the Associated Press of men whose names appeared on the passenger list, but who have not been reported as survivors, Six of the 131 names show similarity with others on the missing list, but three of them show no similarity. Only 122 of the 131 names therefore have been checked off, leaving 178 names to be definitely accounted for. Deducting the thirty-three unidentified American soldiers and the nine uncertain names from this list, leaves 136 missing, which, added to the 131 known dead, shows total loss of 267 men.

ADDITIONAL SURVIVORS.

The following additional survivors of the Tuscania were announced tonight by the War Department:

Jacob Zaikind, Fall River, Mass.; Joseph A. Allen, Shakopee, Minn.; Everett L. Hamilton, Scranton, Pa.; Hugo Weirich, Fredericksburg, Tex.; Alfred V. Moyer, Lewiston, Pa.; Herbert Clarence Jenson, Barron, Wis.; Eugene Tomlinson, Bishop, Tex.

The list of names sent by cable to the Associated Press, contains a number of confusing errors and a number of names which cannot be transcribed with certainty. Among them are the following:

E. F. Church (may be Franklin A. Church, Providence, R. I.); J. P. Wasson (may be Thomas S. Wasson, Kosciusko, Miss.); Edgar Cullen (passenger list shows Sterling E. Collons, St. James, Ark.; and Conar A. Collins, Battle Creek, Mich., not yet reported as survivors;) T. E. Davison (may be Chauncey J. Davidson, Anaconda, Mont.); Paul John C. Wood (may be Private James C. Wood, Yantis, Tex.;) William O. Williams (passenger list shows Bell M. Williams, Glenwood, Ark., and Paul A. Williams, Pueblo, Colo.)

In the cabled list also are W. Bardy, E. O. Peca and Claude W. Walker. These names are not on the list which remains after removing from the passenger list all those reported as survivors and those lost.

The home address of the American soldiers buried on the Scottish coast, taken from the Associated Press list of those unaccounted for, as checked up with the Tuscania's passenger list, follows:

(In some instances the spelling from the Scotch seaport does not agree with the official passenger list.)

T. W. Herman (probably Fred W. of Lincoln, Neb.;) Luther D. Reeder, Broadus, Tex.; William Keown, Sand Spring, Tex.; Lewis Roberts, Nachidoches, Tex.; Orvel N. Casper, Milwaukee, Wis.; Everett H. "ENSLAVE THE PEOPLE" IS SLOGAN OF TIRPI

Our Foes Condemn "Vicious Mod tion," Using Patriotic Catchwor to Hold German Labor.

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISP

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 13.—America's bitterest foes and America's possible friends in Germany can be easily identified. Balance the Vaterland party with its resources of money and its prestige of rank against the new "Bund Fur Freiheit Und Vaterland" and you have the identification.

The first is influential, but its influence, while not waning certainly is not growing and its leaders are men of the old order. The influence of the second being based upon ripening forces of the democratic coalition increases daily and United States readers are the coming men, the men with new horizons.

Both want peace, but the first wants an enchatilled peace, the second wants a peace of understanding. Between the political battle fronts in Germany the line is sharply drawn, he who is a reactionary in world affairs, he who is against vote reform, is, whether he knows it or not, against peace. Consciously or unconsciously, the reactionaries confess as much when they declare that what they call "the vicious moderation" of the new Cabinet's foreign programme is the consequence of democratic and socialistic influence. They see that foreign and home policy are in the phase of German and European evolution the face of the same thing. In their wrath, they go more surely to the root of the matter than they dream; they think the issue they face is German; they do not realize that war is building a new world.

Those men are sincere; we shall weaken the value to ourselves of our estimates of current German thought and tendencies if we doubt this. They are a direct consequence of the evolution which brought German democratic and Socialistic elements into the foreground and enabled them to influence the spirit and letter of Germany's foreign or peace programme in the direction of moderation. Many good, well-intentioned men of all classes of society thought it was their duty to step forward in order to save the fatherland from these "misleading democrats."

They are good at patriotic catchwords, and think themselves the possessors of patriotism's true gospel, but when you know who the fatherland party's organisers are and whence the money to organize the machine comes you immediately see it is far from representing the holy crusade solely against Germany's foreign foes, but is meant to be the popular and modernized supplement to the antiquated national liberal party described by yesterday's record of those Malmoe conventions which daily become more candid.

At the head of this party stands Admiral von Tirpitz, who proclaims the party does not intend interfering in the inner policies, it only wished to unite all elements believing that Germany's destiny is imperilled by the acceptance of the Reichstag's anti-annexationist peace resolution of the 19th of last July. Tirpitz and his colleagues declare the acceptance of this resolution is due on one hand to democratic Socialistic influence, and on the other to the government's weakness in bending to influence.

The left wing's moderate peace programme which it is important to remember is supported by the powerful Catholic party, or Centrum, is interpreted by Tirpitz's followers as an ignoble self-annexation, hence the programme of the would-be annexationist Tirpitz, who demands a duel between England and Germany to be fought to a finish and warns against concessions concerning Flanders, coast appears to be concerned only with foreign policy. But looking deeper you discover that those who are so richly financing the new organisation are no others than the captains of industry financing the national Liberal party.

The new Democratic Socialistic leaders say the conclusion to be drawn therefrom is obvious and that only the blindness and political innocence of a certain coterie of professors, schoolmasters and civil and political functionaries of all classes and the mass of well-intentioned, but unquestioning patriots, prevent them seeing the connection and realising by whom and for whose purposes they are being blended into a mass of national liberal voters, even while they remain devoutly convinced that they are serving their country.

For Admiral Von Tirpitz, Germany's inner policy may indeed be a side issue, as he is absorbed in the great foreign policy issues, but the financiers of his pet organization feel and plan otherwise. To their sorrow they have already been compelled to reckon with their workmen and therefore realize the extent of what they call the democratic peril and of the socialistic influence which caused "the vicious moderation" of the government's foreign programme; therefore they wish to enlist as many persons as possible in their voting ranks. Being the proprietors of war industries money is no object with them. That their party is influential it would be foolish to deny; its press organization is excellent; numerically it is large among the bourgeoisie, but does not enlist the masses.

The masses emphatically side with the true liberals and democrats. It requires the Hertling and Kuchlmann Cabinet's utmost adroitness to avoid getting entangled in the net of the Fatherland party's alluring phraseology, but as these Vaterlands Friends so furiously attack the Reichstag majority for its "guilt" in the matter of the anti-annexation resolution of July 19th, and as the Cabinet's lease on life is intimately knit up with the Reichstag majority, it knows it cannot afford to make concessions to or deals with the Fatherland men. On that majority the Cabinet leads and by its confidence the Cabinet lives, hence the Reichstag majority's enemies must be the cabinet's enemies. The Reichstag majority and all new Liberals look sharply to it that it shall be so. The Cabinet and Liberal Germany say:

"There must be no insincerity concerning your position, feelings and intentions; the masses are aroused and they are sharp observers and in-

"MISTAKE" GERMAN FLAG FOR AMERICAN.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]
HOUSTON (Tex.) Feb. 13.—W. C. Langlotz, Mayor, and ten citizens of Fayetteville, near here, pleaded not guilty here today before the United States Commissioner to charges of espionage. They were held under bonds totaling $49,000.
Their arrests followed the display over the entry of the Germania Club in Fayetteville of the German flag. Federal officials made the arrests, removed the flag and flag pole and brought the prisoners here.
Mayor Langlotz, in court, said that the German flag was displayed by mistake.
With one exception, all are American born citizens.

GOVERNMENT'S BILL DEBATED.

Republican Senators Behind Administration Measure.

Give it Support as Effort to Help Win the War.

Final Vote Late Next Week Expected by Smith.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]
WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—Debate on the administration railroad bill in the Senate today was confined largely to prepared speeches by Senator Kellogg and McLean, Republicans, both of whom announced they would vote for the measure, though they opposed the principle involved and supported government operation of the carriers only as a war measure, to terminate at a fixed time.
"The present plan of government possession under private management is a half-slave, half-free policy, that can be justified only at a time when the life of the nation itself is at stake," said Senator McLean. "It has all the defects of government ownership and none of the benefits of private management under private ownership."
Senator Kellogg expressed the opinion that the President's action in taking over the railroads was unnecessary and that results as great would have been accomplished had the government given adequate cooperation to the railroads in meeting the situation.
Senator Johnson of South Dakota introduced an amendment which would restore the original provision making the termination of government control subject to future congressional action. This provision was eliminated by both Senate and House Committees.
A substitute bill was introduced by Senator Townsend, a Republican member of the committee. It closely follows the pending measure except that it changes the compensation section slightly.
Senator Smith of South Carolina, in charge of the bill, hopes to reach a final vote late next week.
Senator Kellogg spoke in support of the committee's amended draft of the administration bill, which, he said, "reflects the best judgment of the administration and the committee." Although he did not agree with the President and his advisors on the railroad question, the Minnesota senator said he intended doing everything possible "to strengthen and facilitate government operation and insure justice to the people, the railroads and the vast army of security holders."

"OUR FIRST PEACE," SAYS THE KAISER.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]
LONDON, Feb. 12.—Emperor William, according to an exchange telegram form Amsterdam, has sent the following telegram to Philipp Heinecker, manager of the North German Lloyd Steamship Company:
"Many thanks for your congratulations over our first peace. It is only a small beginning made by German's sword against the closed door leading to a general peace. I am filled with gratitude. May God help us further."

Name Hays.

of the Republican National Committee, were based largely on a letter which Senator William M. Calder of New York produced before the Executive Committee here yesterday. The letter was dated in Berlin, August 21, 1914, addressed to the editor of the Dubuque Telegraph Herald. It said that "as America has been flooded with lying and misleading reports from London, Paris and St. Petersburg," the writer would like to see published in the Telegraph Herald some articles which he was forwarding. These articles were the German white books, "Truth About Germany."

KAISER LAUDED.

"I will make the assertion," the letter continued, "that there are no more peace-loving people in the world than the Germans, from the Kaiser himself to the humblest citizen, and there are no people who have progressed farther in all that is best in cultured civilization.
"But Germany in recent years has surpassed all other countries in Europe in prosperity and she has interfered with the foreign commerce of Great Britain. This is the principal reason why the small war party in England, headed by the arch-hypocrite, Sir Edward Grey, has nursed the anti-German sentiment among the 'bloody-shirt' politicians of France and the degenerate aristocracy of Russia. This is the reason why Sir Edward Grey, while making a few plays to the galleries in behalf of peace, was actually working twenty-four hours a day to make certain the outbreak of hostilities.
"It is now perfectly clear to all of us who have been living in Germany that when Russia and France were secretly planning to make Austria's determination to punish the Serbian assassins the occasion for a sudden attack on the German border, these two countries were given adequate assurance that England would support them.

ALLIES CONDEMNED.

"That France has intended to march her troops through Belgian territory in order to flank the right wing of the German army, and that she was to do so with the knowledge and approval of England, is absolutely certain, and that Belgium was a party to the understanding is highly probable."
The letter closed with the prediction that the German empire would not be destroyed because "the hostile preparations which have been going on in France and Russia for several years have been too evident and too threatening for Germany to ignore, so they have prepared themselves and . . . will successfully maintain their right to live and prosper against the whole gang of devilish conspirators who have forced the innocent masses of Russia, France and England to fight against them."
Senator Calder said that the letter was signed by John T. Adams.

HAYS ACCEPTS.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]
INDIANAPOLIS (Ind.) Feb. 13.—In a telegram to the Republican National Committee at St. Louis, Will H. Hays accepted the chairmanship of the Republican National Committee. Mr. Hays did not expect to go to St. Louis and has made no plans. At present he is chairman of the Republican State Central Committee and chairman of the Indiana State Council of Defense.
Mr. Hays's telegram to the committee follows:
"I accept the chairmanship with a full knowledge of the responsibilities — responsibilities multiplied many times by reason of the national situation and the reconstruction that is to come.
"Everyone knows that there will be political activity. The Democratic party has been busy for months. This political activity should be open and acknowledged and of a character and on a plane that needs no subterfuge.

LOYALTY.

"There is but one side to the question of war. On that side, supporting the country's cause, shall stand every political party and every member of every political party entitled to any consideration whatsoever. The loyalty of the Republican party always has been and always will be measured only by the possibilities.
"There is but one possible rule for a party organization. The rights of the individuals within the party to participate in the management of the party's affairs shall be and remain equally sacred and sacredly equal.
"I fully appreciate the honor and thank you. I shall undertake the task with an absolute conviction that every one of you and those whom you represent will co-operate completely as I most earnestly urge all to do.
"I especially appreciate the magnanimous spirit in which Mr. Adams and all others have acted in behalf of party unity."

NO PLANS MADE.

Mr. Hays stated tonight that he had made no plans, but expected several members of the national committee tomorrow on their way East. Telegrams of congratulations began arriving late today, and tonight were stacked in heaps in Mr. Hays's rooms at the hotel.
Chairman Hays said the same general plan used in the campaign in Indiana would be carried out on a larger scale in the next national campaign.
"My telegram of acceptance," said the new chairman, "will be my guide, especially the three main points of it. First, that politics should be on a plane that needs no subterfuge; second, that there is but one side to the question of war, and third, equality in party management —those will constitute my programme."

CAREER OF HAYS, THE NEW CHAIRMAN.

REPUBLICAN LEADER ONLY 38, BUT ACTIVE IN POLITICS SINCE FIRST VOTE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]
INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 13.—Will H. Hays, who today was elected chairman of the Republican National Committee, is the youngest chairman in the history of the Republican party. He is 38, but has been active in politics since the became a voter, when he was elected a precinct committeeman at Sullivan. His political education, as they say in Indiana, has been from the ground up. He was chairman of the Sullivan County Committee from 1904 to 1908. During that time he was also a member of the Advisory Committee of the Republican organization.
Hays began his career in State politics in 1906, when Gov. Goodrich, who was then State chairman, appointed him chairman of the speakers' bureau. He was at the head of the speakers in 1908. He became a member of the State Committee from the Second District in 1912 and was re-elected in 1914. He became Republican State chairman February 12, 1914, taking charge of the party when it was in third place. He was re-elected chairman in 1916 and is still at the head of the organization in Indiana. His determination from his first election to treat all Republicans on an equal basis attracted the attention of party leaders throughout the country to him and was a large factor in his behalf as a receptive candidate for the national chairmanship.
Hays was graduated from Wabash College in 1900 with a degree of B.A. In 1914 he received a degree of M.A. from Wabash. He was admitted to the bar when he was 21 and since then has been a member of the firm of Hays & Hays, Sullivan, Ind. He is associated in the practice of law with his father, John Hays, and his brother, Hinckle C. Hays. He has never held political office other than that of City Attorney at Sullivan.
Mr. Hays is a staunch Presbyterian and for many years has taught a class of boys in Sunday-school in his home city. He is a Scottish Rite Mason and a Knight of Pythias. In Indianapolis he is a member of the Columbia Club, University Club and the Marion Club and the Country Club. He is a member of the Illinois Athletic and Chicago Automobile clubs of Chicago. He is a member of the Country Club at Terre Haute and a life member of the Sullivan Lodge of Elks. His college fraternity is the Phi Delta Theta. He was State president of the order for six years. He has been chairman of the State Council of Defense since last May, giving his entire time to the work without compensation.

HENNIG SHOUTS HE'S LOYAL TO AMERICA.

GERMAN CHARGED WITH MUTILATING TORPEDOES IS OWN WITNESS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]
NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—Paul C. H. Hennig, naturalized German, made emphatic protestations of loyalty to the United States while testifying in his own behalf in the Brooklyn Federal court today where he is on trial for treason. He is alleged to have mutilated with "traitorous and malicious intent" parts of gyroscopes made in the E. W. Bliss munitions factory where he formerly was a foreman. The gyroscopes were intended for use by the United States navy.
"I am with the United States—here I make my living and I am a citizen," Hennig fairly shouted in answer to question of his attorney.
"Did you ever have any feeling that you wanted Germany to win this war?" was another question asked.
"No, sir, I did not," was the answer.
Hennig said many of his brother-members of a fraternal organization were with the American forces in France and that he had "the same feeling for them as any father would have."
On cross-examination, Hennig declared both factory and government inspectors at the munitions plant where he formerly was foreman were lax in the performance of their duties and that his relations with them became unfriendly because he repeatedly called their attention to imperfections in "gyro" parts which they had approved.
Hennig declared Lieut. Francis L. Shea, who was in charge of the government inspection room at the plant and a witness against him, was incompetent and that he had told him several times that he "did not know his business." These difficulties Hennig said, widened the breach between himself and Shea's staff.

TESTIFIES TO GERMAN ACTIVITY IN HONOLULU.

ISLAND CONSULATE CONNECTED WITH INDIA-REVOLT PLOT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]
SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 13.—Reported activities of the German Consulate at Honolulu in helping outfit the steamer Maverick for her employment as a munitions runner for revolutionists in India were outlined today in the trial of thirty-one supposed agents of these revolutionists.
Hiring a sampan, or native boat, supposedly by the consulate, to ply between the Maverick in the stream off Hilo and the shore, in order that code messages said to relate to the revolution and supplies might be given the vessel, was described by H. A. Schroeder, the consulate's former secretary. Schroeder previously pleaded guilty to complicity in the so-called conspiracy to purchase arms and ammunition and raise armed forces in this country for the revolution.
George F. Rodiek, former German Consul at Honolulu, who pleaded guilty with Schroeder, was fined $10,000 after testifying for the government.
The cross-examination of J. B. Starr-Hunt, supercargo on the Maverick, was resumed today. Asked if he had pointed a gun at two of the Hindu members of the Maverick crew to force them to stay on the island of Socorro and await a munitions vessel there, he denied this action, but admitted that he compelled one Hindu to stay on the vessel until it reached Batavia after the man had stated his intention of disembarking at Hilo.
The munitions ship was said by the prosecution to be the schooner Annie Larsen, and the Hindus were to direct it to a port where it could reship its cargo to the Maverick.

CHICAGO BAKERS AGAIN RAISE PRICE OF BREAD.

ALLEGED HIGH COST OF WHEAT FLOUR SUBSTITUTES IS EXCUSE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]
CHICAGO, Feb. 13.—Because wheat flour substitutes are as costly and hard to secure as wheat flour itself, Chicago bakers have again raised the price of bread, 9-cent loaves advancing to 10 cents and 13-cent loaves to 15 cents.
Food Administration officials announced today that they had not heard of any raise.
Officers of the Illinois Master Bakers' Association said that prices must be advanced or bakers would be forced out of business.

REVOKE MONDAY CLOSING ORDER

National Fuel Administration's Rule Suspended.

States Given Authority to Apply Local Relief.

Coal Problem Solved Unless Cold Weather Returns.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]
WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—Fuel Administrator Garfield today suspended the Monday closing order but left the way open to put it again into operation if it appears that would be necessary.
State Fuel Administrators were given permission to keep the order in force in their States if it appears that it should be done to relieve fuel shortage and also were authorized to put into force any other restrictive measure that special circumstances make necessary.
The part of the Monday closing order establishing a priority list in coal distribution will be continued generally as will the embargoes placed on railroads by Director-General McAdoo. The operation of the priority arrangement and the embargoes, Fuel Administrator Garfield said today, promise to solve the fuel problem unless there is a return of bad weather.
Dr. Garfield said that the New England States were the only ones that had requested that the order be continued in force, and that J. J. Storrow, Fuel Administrator for New England, probably would issue a special order continuing its operations in those States. He described the New England fuel situation as critical.

HIGHER WHEAT PRICE IS URGED IN SENATE.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]
WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—A bill to fix the price of wheat for the 1918 crop at not less than $2.75 a bushel, instead of $2, as now provided, was introduced today by Senator McCumber, Republican, of North Dakota, and referred to the Agriculture Committee. The Senator said the price of materials and labor had become so high that something must be done to increase the profits of the farmers and induce them to increase production.
Senator Gore, Democrat, of Oklahoma, also introduced an amendment increasing the government guaranteed price to $2.50 a bushel.

OVER MILLION CUT FROM INDIAN BILL.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]
WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—A favorable report on the Indian appropriation bill was agreed upon today by the Senate Indian Affairs Committee. As amended, it carries about $1,100,000 less than as passed by the House. All authorizations for new buildings and appropriations for new irrigation projects, amounting to about $900,000, were eliminated.

BISHOP ASKS PEOPLE TO OBEY FOOD RULES.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]
SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 13.—Recommendation that Catholics of every condition observe strictly the meatless and wheatless days and meals specified by the Food Administration was put forth by Archbishop Edward J. Hanna in a series of conditions to govern during the Lenten period, issued here today.

BEAUTIFUL HAIR THICK WAVY, FREE FROM DANDRUFF

Draw a moist cloth through hair and double its beauty at once.

Save your hair! Dandruff disappears and hair stops coming out.

Immediate?—Yes! Certain?—that's the joy of it. Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after an application of Danderine. Also try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt or excessive oil, and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair. A delightful surprise awaits those whose hair has been neglected or is scraggy, faded, dry, brittle or thin. Besides beautifying the hair, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp.

Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating stimulating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow long, strong and beautiful.

You can surely have pretty, charming, lustrous hair, and lots of it, if you will spend a few cents for a bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and try it as directed.

Labor.

RAILWAY MEN ASK MILLIONS.

Claims of Employees Presented Government.

Increases Averaging Third is General Demand.

Present Conditions Held a Peril to Public Safety.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—The first official indication of what proposed railroad wage increases would cost was given at today's hearing before the Railroad Wage Commission, when J. A. Franklin presented the claims of the railway employees' department of the American Federation of Labor.

"Figuring an average of 33 1-3 per cent, increase on the flat increases asked, the additional cost would be $82,000,000 annually," Secretary Lane, chairman of the commission, computed.

Mr. Franklin said the estimate seemed correct, based upon increases for 250,000 organized men. He also had suggested that any increases should apply to unorganized workers of the same trades, numbering about 260,000, who were not figured in the rough calculation. The wage basis asked was $6 a day for skilled men, such as carmen, machinists and blacksmiths, $4.50 a day for helpers and time and a half for overtime, Sunday and holiday work.

Mr. Franklin also asked for the eight-hour day, six days a week, time and a half for overtime and certain minimum wages. Except for regular apprentices no employee would, to receive an increase of less than 25 cents an hour.

ASK $2 A DAY RAISE.

"You mean you are asking for a $2 a day increase?" asked Secretary Lane.

"Yes," Franklin replied. "This is in keeping with the prices these men have to pay for living. Coal miners and shipbuilders in the last two years have received more than $2 a day increase. The increases we ask are not higher than the pay now being given for similar work in outside industries."

Mr. Franklin said he did not consider an increase of $82,000,000 a year excessive for 250,000 men.

"The mere statement of the number of men is hardly proof of the justice of your claim," Mr. Lane said. "Neither do I think you should be barred from a reasonable wage because it might entail increased freight rates."

Mr. Franklin was speaking for 251,000 members of shop unions. He said the increases also should apply to 240,000 nonunion men not included in Secretary Lane's computation.

None of the witnesses has submitted estimates of what the increases requested would cost, all apparently taking the position of A. B. Garretson of the conductors, who said that it did not matter what the cost would be since the increases were essential to maintain the standard of living and that if an industry did not maintain the men serving it, the industry did not deserve to survive.

EXODUS FROM SHOPS.

Low wages have been blamed by the witnesses for the exodus of railroad workers to other industries, with the result that many skilled men have been lost. Mr. Franklin said the various shop unions he represented had lost 15 per cent. of their membership to shipyards and still others to munitions factories.

Warren S. Stone of the engineers told the commission that never before this winter have the railroads entered the bad weather season with equipment in such "rotten condition." He said that lack of skilled men in shops was responsible for curtailment of output there to 60 per cent. of normal. He said there would be no shortage of engines if provision was made to care for motive power.

"Many roads went into the winter with no provision for taking care of their motive power," he said. "There were no doors on roundhouses, no means of heating. I know of one instance where twenty-five to thirty engines were kept burning all night, using perhaps one ton of coal each an hour to keep them from freezing."

SEES MENACE TO SAFETY.

Long hours worked by railroad men Mr. Stone denounced as a menace to public safety. He said a majority of yards were working on an eight-hour shift until the movement was begun for increased wages, when the work was lengthened to enable the railroads to show larger amounts paid to employees. More than half the engineers of the country receive less than $150 a month, he said.

Employment of women in the place of men was condemned by Mr. Stone. He said women now were being used as engine wipers, cinder shovelers, lumber pilers, freight truckers and for other dirty and heavy work, although he declared there were plenty of men to fill such positions.

A. E. Barker, speaking for the Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees, said his men were on the verge of quitting because they saw living costs mounting steadily without advance in wages.

"For the last twelve months the railroads have not been able to get men to keep up the standard of their road bed, one of the most vital parts of any system," he asserted. "Of course, a track runs down gradually, but it will take many more men now to make repairs than would have been required if thousands of the crews had not been attracted to other labor by better pay."

PROFESSIONAL HANDICAP.

J. B. Parsons and F. R. Weller of the American Association of Engineers said the roads were handicapped for professionally trained engineers, who were offered jobs at $40 to $50 a month after spending four years in college and perhaps going in debt several thousand dollars for technical education.

P. F. Richardson of Chicago said men in mechanical and bridge-building trades were leaving to take $1 to $2 a day more wages in other employment.

Mr. Franklin's representations to the commission resulted in the first mention of increased freight rates as a means of providing the revenue necessary to meet the new expenses.

"These increases must be paid by the shippers," observed Chairman Lane, "but I don't think you should be barred from a reasonable wage because it might entail an increase in freight rates."

Comparison of railroad wages with the pay in other industries brought suggestions from the commissioners that the large wages in shipyards and munitions factories were due to abnormal conditions and were temporary. The witnesses did not agree. Mr. Franklin said shipbuilding certainly was good for several years more and called attention to increases in pay in coal mines, which, he said, made common labor worth more than skilled labor in railroad shops.

INCREASES SUGGESTED.

Increases suggested today were 40 per cent. for mechanical employees and bridge builders; $3.25 to $3.50 a day for section men who now are paid $2.10; section foremen, $110 to $140 a month instead of $56 to $90; masons, $6.50 a day; mason foremen, $150 a month; interlocking signal builders, $5 a day; carmen, blacksmiths, machinists, etc., minimum of 75 cents an hour, and helpers, 56¼ cents an hour, no increase to be less than 25 cents an hour; engineers, a minimum of $6 a day. All urged time and a half for overtime.

The civil engineers did not ask any specific increase, calling attention to the fact that they were unorganized and suggesting merely that their case should be given just consideration.

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Feb. 13.—Congressman Randall today obtained an order from the Postmaster-General, establishing free mail delivery in San Fernando and San Dimas, beginning April 1. The service will be similar in all respects to that given in the larger cities.

Mr. Randall announced that nearly all the smaller cities in the Ninth Congressional District have now been granted free delivery, including Sierra Madre, Covina, Azusa, Glendora, San Dimas and San Fernando. This service is classed as village delivery and has been established at eight towns in California, the Ninth District now having a larger number than any Congressional district in the United States except one in Missouri.

CANADIAN ARMY HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE, Feb. 13.—(By Canadian Press, Ltd.) After three years and a half of war, Canada is entering upon the spring campaign stronger in men and material and guns than at any time since the mobilization at Val Cartier marked the creation of the Dominion's first division. The Canadians are holding a larger front than ever. Canada's splendid home support of the military service measure has placed the military authorities in a position where they not only are assured of reinforcements for the existing units, but can add largely to their fighting establishments.

GERMANS CAPTURED.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Feb. 12.—"We carried out a successful raid last night upon German trenches southeast of Hargicourt, capturing eleven prisoners, including an officer," says today's official statement. Patrol encounters in which casualties were inflicted on the enemy took place last night southeast of Lens.

"Apart from hostile artillery activity in the neighborhood of Epehy and northeast of Ypres there is nothing further to report."

ENTER FOE'S TRENCH.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

WITH THE FRENCH ARMY IN FRANCE, Tuesday, Feb. 12.—In the course of three successful trench raids early this morning the French advanced as far as the fourth German line between La Petrie and Mort Mare woods, in the Woevre, and took prisoners belonging to the Ninth Bavarian and the Ninety-fourth Landwehr divisions.

The German entanglements had been destroyed by the French artillery last night and the progress of the assaulting column was favored by a heavy mist. As soon as the French reached the first positions the Germans opened a sweeping machine gun fire as well as an artillery barrage, but the French penetrated the shell curtain almost without casualties, demolished all the enemy shelters and emplacements and returned to their own lines with most valuable information.

When the French attack was in progress the Germahs attempted a raid at Regneville in the same district, but were repulsed with heavy losses.

PARIS, Feb. 12.—There was fairly heavy artillery firing last night in the neighborhood of Pinon, on the Aisne front, says today's War Office statement. Northwest of Rheims the bombardment was also rather lively. German aviators last night threw down several bombs on Nancy, killing three civilians and wounding five.

SALVATION OFFICERS EXEMPT FROM ARMY.

"MINISTERS OF RELIGION" IS RULING MADE BY WAR DEPARTMENT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—Salvation Army officers are competent to perform marriages and other rites of the church and for that reason are entitled to exemption from military service as "ministers of religion," according to a statement issued by the army today.

The explanation was made in taking exception to the ruling of the district draft board that Salvation Army service does not entitle the men engaged in it to deferred classification.

The organization asserted that Secretary of War Baker and Provost-Marshal-General Crowder had ruled that Salvation Army officers were clergymen and for that reason exempt from active military duty.

PACIFIST RESOLUTION IS DEFEATED IN COMMONS.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Feb. 13.—The House of Commons today resumed the debate on the address in reply to the speech from the throne.

Discussion of foreign and military affairs was dropped temporarily for consideration of the administration of government at home. Herbert Samuel, formerly Secretary of State for home affairs, made the opening speech on this subject.

An amendment proposed by Richard Holt, Radical, expressing regret that, "In accordance with the decisions of the supreme war council at Versailles, prosecution of the military efforts is to be the only immediate task of the government," was rejected by a vote of 159 to 26. The minority was composed mainly of pacifists.

Lord Hugh Cecil had declared that the adoption of the amendment would involve the resignation of the government.

Another amendment expresses regret that the action has not been taken against newspapers which have published attacks on individual officers of the higher commands.

Arthur J. Balfour, Secretary for Foreign Affairs, speaking in the debate in the House of Commons, supported the Prime Minister and contended that even President Wilson, so far as he was aware, did not profess to find definite formulated propositions in Count Czernin's speech.

It was a misunderstanding, he said, to assume that the Versailles council had to deal with diplomatic and political issues; its real business was military.

"The government's view," added the Secretary, "is that the attitude of the Central Powers shows that for the moment diplomacy is entirely out of court. It was the Central Powers who banged the door, and, by the mouth of the Chancellor and the Kaiser, proved that they are as far removed as three years ago from accepting the ideals to which President Wilson has given classical expression."

Food Officer Tells London of Hoover's Programme.

Lauds Sacrifices Here that Make Plan Possible.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Feb. 12.—Herman Goode, who since the entry of the United States into the war has occupied the important post of liaison officer between the British food ministry and the United States Food Administration, discussed the present food situation in an address today to the London Rotary Club.

"Few people," he said, "have yet grasped the fundamental fact that Great Britain still relies on the United States and Canada for 65 per cent. of her essential foodstuffs. Unless we can get this food, or nearly all of it, we shall petef out. As to how we get it, the popular idea seems to be that the United States is an up-to-date combination of miracle loaves and fishes and the widow's cruse.

SACRIFICE.

"What I want you to realize is the amazing way in which the energies and sentiments of the American people have been harnessed to a great national movement of organized self-sacrifice, so that the Allies can have food enough to carry on."

He proceeded to give a detailed account of the steps taken by the United States toward food production and conservation.

"The cynic will tell you," he said, "that it is ridiculous to imagine that the American people, living in the midst of plenty, will make such sacrifices as those for the sake of their allies thousands of miles away. The cynic will relegate President Wilson and Herbert C. Hoover to the category of well-meaning idealists. But these voluntary measures can be tested by results.

AVAILABLE.

"Early last month we received from Mr. Hoover a cablegram saying he found that as a result of American conservation there had been 150,000,000 pounds of and 25,000,000 pounds of meat more than the Allied representatives in the United States estimated as likely to be available. His offer was so unexpected that we had to hustle to get the tonnage for shipping for the winter months. Later on, as turned out, a large amount of frozen meat arrived, thousands of tons above the estimate. Except for the difficulty in shipping in American ports, owing to congestion on the railways and wharfs, our bacon and meat supplies would long since have run out. These shipments, which represent only a small percentage of the total sacrifice of the American people.

"It is lucky for us that a man like Mr. Hoover is at the head of Allied food supply and that behind him is a people willing to deny themselves so we may live."

GIVE UP CAMP GREENE IS ADVICE OF GOE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—Sanitary conditions prevailing at Camp Greene, Charlotte, N. C., were called to the attention of Secretary Baker today by Surgeon-General Gorgas, who said fortitude born of overcrowding are endangering the health of troops there.

Wet weather, character of the soil and the temporary nature of the camp, the surgeon-general said, are responsible. The War Department is disposed to abandon the camp, but local interests are said to object.

Knee-deep mud, impossibility of removing garbage, inadequate facilities, standing pools of water, the certainty of large crops of flies and other undesirable conditions, the surgeon-general says, make the continuance of the camp advisable only in fair weather. Secretary Baker has advised the Carolinians to make personal investigation.

NEW YORK Feb. 13.—Dr. M. S. Vesnitch, head of the Serbian mission in this country, speaking today on President Wilson's address before Congress on January 8, expressed the opinion that Count Czernin, the Austrian Premier, was insincere and was acting concertedly with Chancellor Hertling of Germany in an effort to deceive the Entente and divide Austria's real attitude.

CALIFORNIA WAR RAIL PROBLEMS AND REMED

State Commission Issues Report of Inquiry Into Conditions

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 13.—Remedies which would ameliorate the subnormal conditions of railroad transportation in California were detailed by the State Railroad Commission today in a report on an investigation into the conditions of the railroads of the State during the war emergency.

It was the opinion of the commission that the assumption of control and operation of the railroads by the Federal government would make possible the application of the suggested remedies and they were sent to Director-General McAdoo.

The suggested remedies included the removal of restriction on the importation of unskilled Mexican laborers; establishment during the war emergency of special courses at universities, technical and trade schools which would give practical experience in railroad shops; cessation of all public and private improvement not absolutely essential to the conduct of the war, in order that laborers might be released for work on railroads.

COAL SITUATION.

Handling of the coal situation along lines similar to the English system, where the demands of a locality are supplied from the nearest available source, was recommended as a means of effecting tremendous savings.

All merely competitive passenger and freight service, with its consequent waste of man and motive power, equipment and fuel, should be abolished, in the opinion of the commission, and all manifold and unnecessary overhead and general expenses of the individual railroad companies should be eliminated and a uniform standard of construction, maintenance and operation adopted wherever possible; and the purchase of materials and equipment should be consolidated for all railroads.

FOR JOINT BOARD.

To effect these remedies the commission recommended the immediate necessity of appointing a joint board or committee, made up of qualified men from technical, operating and traffic departments, who should study the situation in the State as a whole and make definite recommendations looking to the complete elimination of all merely competitive activities.

Concerning measures advocated by the railroads looking to greater efficiency of existing equipment, the commission said these suggested remedies are chiefly along the lines of added penalties, the shipper to enforce the prompt loading and unloading of cars and freight switching, permission to reconsign and similar privileges. It is proposed to tighten demurrage rules and to eliminate free time on account of inclement weather and to eliminate the right of the receiver of freight to have his cars delivered on his own team tracks.

The investigation developed that the steamer lines, especially those operating on inland waterways, interurban electric lines, motor truck and even the street car lines are in a position to handle a large amount of short-haul freight that is now handled by the interstate roads. Switching service to and from large terminals and in the neighborhood of such terminals could be handled more efficiently and at less cost by electric operation than steam operation, the commission found through studies in Los Angeles.

It was evident in almost all cases where steam lines compete with electric interurban lines that the latter can perform passenger traffic service more satisfactorily, more economically and [illegible] believe the steam lines [illegible] posting business, the report [illegible]

ASHINGTON, Feb. 13.— Gen. Pershing has recommended to the War Department that the number of chaplains in his army be increased for the present with an additional for an average of three for each regiment, to be assigned in order to be available for such detached duty as may be required.

The conduct of the expeditionary forces has been excellent, the general said, fortitude born of adversity and lofty spiritual courage, and efforts to overcome unsanitary conditions found in France have met with his hearty support. It is his desire to surround the men with the best influence possible, he added, and the Chaplain Corps definite recognized status and to outdirect and enlarge their work in co-operative and useful aid to the troops.

The present law provides only one chaplain for each regiment, but a bill is pending in Congress a bill to increase that number to one for each 1,000 men in all branches of the military establishment. The approval of the War Department and the administration leaders have urged its early passage.

In the fulfilling of its duty to the nation," said Gen. Pershing's telegram, made public tonight, "it is expected of our army and navy that we should be left undone that which will help in keeping it in the highest state of efficiency. I believe the personnel of the army has never been more excellent, but to overcome entirely the conditions found here requires the best fortitude born of great faith, and the most lofty spiritual ideas. I hold myself responsible for the welfare of our men in every respect, and it is my desire to surround them with the best influence possible. In the fulfillment of this desire I trust, it seems wise to request the aid of the church at home in this and it is recommended that the number of chaplains in the army be increased for the present to an average of three per regiment with assimilated rank of major and captain in due proportion, and that a number be assigned e for Each Regiment are Recommended by Commander—Specials Needed for Detached Duty.

ORE ARMY CHAPLAINS ASKED BY PERSHING.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SHINGTON, Feb. 13.—Gen. Pershing has recommended to the War Department that the number of chaplains authorized may be increased for the present with an average of three for each regiment with an additional number assigned in order to be available for such detached duty as may be required.

The conduct of the expeditionary force has been excellent, General Pershing said, fortitude born of courage and lofty spiritual motives resulted in efforts to overcome enthusiasm found in France and a sincere desire to surround the troops with the best influence possible. It is his purpose, he added, to give the Chaplain Corps definite military status and to outline, direct and enlarge their work so that it may be more effective and useful aid to the troops.

The present law provides only one chaplain for each regiment, but pending in Congress a bill would increase that number to one for every 1000 men in all branches of the military establishment. The bill has the approval of the War Department and the administration leaders have urged its early passage.

In fulfilling of its duty to the troops," said Gen. Pershing's report, made public tonight, "the spiritual welfare of our army and navy should be left undone that we may be keeping it in the highest state of efficiency. I believe the morale of the army has never been better and the conduct has been excellent, but to overcome environmental conditions found here requires the birth of great moral and lofty spiritual ideas. The church must be responsible for the moral tone of our men in every respect to our desire to surround them with the best influence possible. To the fulfillment of this duty the church at home, it seems wise to recommend that the number of chaplains authorized for the army be increased for the present with an average of three per regiment with assimilated rank of major or captain in due proportion as to number be assigned in order to be available for such detached duty as may be required. Men selected should be of the highest character with reputations well established as sensible, practical, active ministers or workers accustomed to dealing with young men. They should be in vigorous health as their services will be needed under most trying circumstances. Appointees should, of course, be subjected to discharges for inefficiency like other officers of the National Army.

"It is my purpose to give the Chaplain Corps through these forces, a definite and responsible status and to outline, direct and enlarge their work into co-operative and useful aid to the troops."

ARMY COURT TO TRY INDISCREET TROOPS.

SOLDIERS TO BE PUNISHED FOR VIOLATIONS OF VICE AND LIQUOR LAW.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Feb. 13.—Trials of soldiers for drinking intoxicating liquor and visiting immoral resorts will be held daily hereafter at Western Department headquarters under the direction of Capt. H. W. Cochran, U.S.A., newly appointed provost marshal for the department.

The decision to inflict punishment upon the soldiers as well as the civilians participating in violations of laws designed to preserve the efficiency of the man in uniform, is part of the campaign of vice and liquor suppression decided upon at the conference in the office of Mayor James Rolph, Jr., Monday afternoon.

The daily summary court-martials will be in the nature of Police Court trials, with maximum sentence of three months imprisonment. Theodore J. Roche, president of the Police Commission said today that the police and army authorities will co-operate in action against cheap lodging-houses which he declared are the principal offenders.

CHOIR MASTER'S ENGAGEMENT TO MAY PETERSON REPORTED IN CHICAGO.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Feb. 13.—Church, theatrical and society interests were interested over a well-defined report today that Miss May Peterson of the Metropolitan Opera Company of New York and Homer Rodeheaver, Billy Sunday's choir master, were engaged to be married. A dispatch from New York said that Miss Peterson refused either to confirm or deny the report. Both are well known in Chicago. Miss Peterson made a wide local acquaintance some years ago as a soloist at the Eighth Presbyterian Church. In 1903 she took the leading role in "Ruth," a cantata, which was produced. Soon afterward she went abroad and studied with masters in Florence and Berlin. She made her debut as a stage singer when she was a child.

Rodeheaver became widely known in church circles as Billy Sunday's golden-voiced choir master. He was sued for breach of promise to marry by Miss Georgia Jay, who won a jury verdict of $20,000 on complaint asking for $50,000 damages.

Judge Honore set the verdict aside and ordered a new trial. But before the date of the hearing on the motion was reached a settlement was reached. It was announced at the time that the amount of this settlement was to be kept secret by both parties. In connection with the reported Rodeheaver-Peterson engagement, however, it was learned that Rodeheaver paid Miss Jay approximately $5000.

Rodeheaver and Miss Jay, it was said, were together much of the time during his evangelistic tours. In connection with the suit were stories of automobile rides, love scenes and the exchange of love missives, some of which were produced at the hearing. The singer, it was alleged, proposed marriage in a wild ride in a taxicab. He took advantage of the fact, it was said, that the chauffeur's attention was fixed on the steering wheel and planted a kiss on his companion's lips.

Chauffeur Married to Orphan Daughter of Millionaire Tobacco Man.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Feb. 13.—Miss Zella Merrick, heiress to an estate valued at $1,000,000, was married today to Herbert E. Dickinson, former chauffeur for William R. Morehouse, with whose family Miss Merrick lived. The wedding ceremony was performed at Christ Church, East Forty-second street and South Michigan avenue, the Rev. Samuel M. Gibson officiating. The only attendants were Mr. Morehouse and his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Schuyler, Jr.

Mrs. Dickinson was an orphan, her mother dying when her daughter was only 7 years of age. The father, L. C. Merrick, was a member of the wholesale tobacco firm of Spaulding & Merrick. He died in 1906, and the daughter grew up as a member of the Morehouse family. Mr. and Mrs. Dickinson will pass their honeymoon at Grand Rapids, Mich., where Mr. Dickinson's mother resides.

"RULE SEA AND LAND," IS KAISER'S BOAST.

SETS NINETEEN SEVENTEEN AS YEAR OF FULFILLMENT OF GERMANY'S AIMS.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SAN BERNARDINO, Feb. 13.—That he attended the christening of the German warship Kaiser Carl Der Grosse at Hamburg in July, 1901, and heard the Kaiser utter the prediction that Germany would rule the sea and land in 1917, was the declaration here tonight of S. C. Clemmensen of No. 549 Base Line avenue, for the past fourteen years mechanic employed by the Santa Fe at Needles and here. Clemmensen is a native of Denmark and went to the Blom & Foss shipyards at Hamburg in 1898. He worked on the Kaiser Carl Der Grosse and was one of the crowd that attended the launching when the Kaiser's daughter broke a bottle of champagne over the prow bow.

"In 1917 our fleet will have supreme power over the seas. Our future lies on the water. We are to rule the sea and land." These were the words the Kaiser uttered as the climax of a long speech praising the German navy, Clemmensen declares. A year later Clemmensen says that he was working on Auguste Victoria, named for the Kaiser's wife. The Kaiser visited the ship at Molde, Norway, and made a short speech to the people on board along the same vein as in the Hamburg speech.

Communications may be sent directly to the livestock commission, No. 505 First National Bank Building, San Francisco. In addition the commission urgently desires to be notified of surplus stocks of hay or other cattle feed which can be shipped to the areas affected.

MAYBE GERMANY DOESN'T THINK AS KAISER DOES.

Emperor's Statement is Contrasted with Wilson's by British Leaders.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Feb. 12.—The former Premier, H. H. Asquith, commenting on the latest developments of the general war situation, said that a number of salient and novel facts had emerged since the beginning of the year.

"We have had a restatement of the peace aims in behalf of this country by the Premier," he said, "a statement in which I entirely concur, both in the spirit and the letter, and on behalf of the United States by President Wilson. We have had, in addition, replies to these statements by Czernin and Von Hertling. We had next a resumption of the Brest-Litovsk negotiations, which resulted in a treaty between the Central Powers and Ukraine."

After referring to the fact that Russia was no longer in the way, he said.

"And, finally, we read this morning two remarkable and sharply contrasted declarations by great and responsible persons: Firstly, a declaration by the German Emperor. The Emperor's aspiration for friendship with other nations is confined in its expression to neighboring nations. That phrase does not seem to include ourselves at first sight, but perhaps in has been a lapse of speech.

MAY BE MISTAKEN.

"What is more important for us to note is that past experience has taught us that it might be a great mistake to assume that what the Emperor said is a condition of peace, is what the German people and the German reichstag really think and feel."

Mr. Asquith then referred to President Wilson's address of yesterday and said:

"The President discriminated justly both in regard to the tone and substance between the declarations of the German and Austrian chancellors. It would seem as though, as President Wilson said, the military party in Germany alone rejected and would have nothing to do with a peace based upon lines which, in principle, at any rate, the whole of the rest of the world is ready to accept.

"It is such a peace only, and a new international order which we believe it would bring about, that would compensate for the sacrifice which justified, even necessitated, the prolongation of the war.

LASTING PEACE.

"The peace for which we are fighting must be a clean and lasting peace, resting on foundations of international justice. That is not only our opinion, but the opinion of all our Allies, and we will rigorously and scrupulously observe those principles in continuing the war.

"We are all desirous that while the war lasts and the purposes for which we entered it are still unachieved, it should be prosecuted with the best resources at our disposal. Among these, in the first place, we must be given leadership. There have been many criticisms, just and unjust, upon the conduct of the war during the last year, but in the military field there has been nothing which has been done or left undone that has in the least shaken the confidence of the empire in those two great soldiers, Haig and Robertson.

"For more than two years," said Mr. Asquith, "against the vicissitudes of fortunes that during that time have befallen the Allier cause, they have proved over and over again their possession in a pre-eminent degree of the qualities of foresight, tenacity, patience and unperturbed resolve which went furthest to win and retain the trust and loyal devotion of the British troops."

"We owe to them," Mr. Asquith continued, "unstinted gratitude and unwavering confidence, and there are no two men whose judgment in military matters I would more upheisitatingly accept."

The former Premier said he thought it could be possible for the government to give a definition of the enlargement of the functions of the inter-allied war council.

"I wish to know, and I am sure the House wished to know," Mr. Asquith continued, "whether any change has been made in the status of the personnel or the functions of the Commander-in-Chief or in those of the Chief of the General Staff. I rule out as absolutely irrelevant in matters of this kind all rumors of personal rivalries and squabbles, such as we read of in the papers. I cannot believe in them, and shall not until I have overwhelming evidence to the contrary. I cannot, and will not believe considerations of that kind can sway the action of politicians or military men.

TRACK CLASH IS ON TODAY.

A sizzling practice track affair will grace the Bovard Field oval this afternoon when Dean Cromwell's fighting U.S.C. freshies and "Pompadour" Moody's Hollywood Hillmen lock in a cinder-path duel to the finish.

This affair will mark the first important appearance of the Hollywood experts this season, their endeavors thus far having been limited to novice and interclass brushes. The Trojan peagreeners were going strong in their tete-a-tete with the L. A. High Straphangers last Friday and state that no quarter will be allowed the elongated youths from the Foothill country.

PAT HIGGINS TO BE ATHLETIC TEACHER.

SOLDIER ENTRIES FOR BOXING MEET.

Several dozen entries for the A.A.U. boxing championship were received at the L.A.A.C. yesterday. Art Lutz has promised to have five battlers present from the submarine base, while George Blake states that he will have a couple of tin cans in the lists from Camp Kearny. The Balboa Park naval training station will also put a brace of contenders in the competition. The championships will be run off on March 8 and 9.

A.A.U. MEETING.

The A.A.U. powers that be have agreed on a little get-together tonight at the L.A.A.C. Among the important things to be brought before the directors is the choice of a field for the annual A.A.U. meet and the settlement of details regarding the boxing championship and relay carnival.

AL SOMMERS TO HIKE SOUTHWARD FOR FIGHTS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PORTLAND (Or.) Feb. 13.—Al Sommers, now carrying the middleweight championship about with him, will undoubtedly go south to meet Battling Henry Ortega in the latter's own lair. Tommy Simpson, manager for Ortega, and Frank Barrieau have promised Sommers two matches in Emeryville and the Portland boy probably will go south shortly.

Sommers and Ortega just had to be rematched to satisfy fans and fighters alike, but with Ortega showing such signs of homesickness there was no chance up here.

Immediately after he returns Sommers probably will meet Micky King here, or should one Chester McIntyre show himself willing to go some more he may be rematched with that worthy.

DOPE ARTISTS PICK MECHANICS TO WIN.

L. A. High and Poly are both grinding the ax for their annual track battle that will be held on Bovard oval tomorrow afternoon. Glenn Whittle has been working his L. A. Straphangers on the Bovard cinder path all week to get them used to the air currents and aroma of the Trojan lot. Both institutions are holding rallies this morning to give the track heroes a chance to limber up their windbags by indulging in fervent oratory. The dope leans toward a triumph for Doc Skinner's Poly Mechanics, but the Straphangers are out to surprise the prophets, as they did in last season's football mix-up with the Washington-street specialists.

OXY AND LINCOLN MEET TOMORROW.

The practice meet between Occidental College and Lincoln High has been set for tomorrow afternoon on Patterson stadium. Tommy Davis's Lincolnites have shown plenty of class thus far in the season, but the Tigers are confidently figuring on being about a 10-point margin to the good when the relay is finished.

Oxy and Manual indulged in a wild cinderpath affair last Friday, both squads claiming to have knocked down the victory, due to a dispute over the use of the hammer. Manager Carl Brandstetner has assured the sporting world at large that no such complications will arise tomorrow.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

POMONA, Feb. 13.—The first effort on the part of Clint Evans, coach of the local High School teams, to find out what sort of material he will have for the coming track season, was made in the annual interclass meet, which was held on the campus this afternoon. The Sophs won the meet by ten points.

BAPTISTS PREPARE FOR QUAKER GAME.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDLANDS, Feb. 13.—The University of Redlands basketball team will invade Whittier Saturday night for the second game of the conference with the Quakers. Redlands defeated the Quakers on the courts here, but it is possible that the locals will not find it so easy at Whittier. The Quakers have strengthened their team and Coach Cunningham believes that his men will have tough sledding.

The final game of the conference season will be played here on the night of February 22, when the Pomona College casaba stars will come here. Early in the season the Baptists defeated Pomona, but since that time Pomona has been doing some star work.

Stanley Silke, manager of athletics at the university, will attend the meeting of the conference managers in Los Angeles, Saturday, when the college conference baseball schedule will be arranged.

VANCOUVER SYNDICATE TO HANDLE NEW NINE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

VANCOUVER (B. C.) Feb. 13.—Bob Brown, owner and manager of the Vancouver club of the Pacific Coast International Baseball League, until this year the Northwestern League, has announced the organization of the Vancouver Baseball Syndicate, through which the baseball followers of this city will take over his franchise, players and equipment.

Brown will turn his interests over to the syndicate for the nominal sum of $1 and it will have an option to purchase them outright at any time before next October 1 for $10,000. The stockholders of the syndicate, a large number of baseball followers, will elect officers and directors. Brown will continue as manager if his services are wanted.

OLD ELI IS GOING BACK TO BASEBALL.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW HAVEN (Ct.) Feb. 13.—Yale is to have a formal baseball team the coming season, it was announced today. It is planned to have the schedule conform as nearly as possible to those of other years, although the games will be played only on Saturdays. There will be no professional coaching.

Behold Potentate Bill Bush of the Al Malaikah Shrine exhorting his Nobles to turn out in force for the first pilgrimage of the year.

Pepper Sauce.

BILL BUSH LEADER OF BIG RED CROSS DRIVE.

SINCE Bill Bush was chosen Potentate of the Al Malaikah Shrine, the wearers of the fez have been as busy as Pierce Arrow dealers fighting off customers. Bill has lined up a programme of pilgrimages as long as a delinquent tax list and the nobles are undergoing a course of intensive training in preparation for the big campaign.

As a wind-up to the preliminary training season, the nobles will cluster at the Shrine Auditorium Saturday night for a smoker at which final instructions for the big offensive will be issued, and there will be festivities and other light amusement to sort of top off the evening's programme.

The Nobles go over the top on Monday, making their first pilgrimage to Pasadena. The Shrine Patrol, the band and the chanters are to give a programme in the Crown City under the auspices of Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, who reside in that fair city. The Patrol will parade, the band will give a concert and the chanters will sing. There will be other additional entertainment features and the entire proceeds will be turned over to the Pasadena Red Cross.

This first pilgrimage will be followed by a number of others along the same order. Trips will be made to Riverside, Santa Ana, Long Beach, Santa Barbara and Bakersfield by over a hundred performers. Concerts will be held under the auspices of local resident Nobles and the proceeds will be turned over to local Red Cross organizations. Verily, when Bill Bush was picked as a Potentate, things began to sizzle and will continue to do so as long as "Pilgrarrer Bill" continues at the helm.

Safeguarding the Public's Health

FOUR thousand workers are employed and three hundred and eighty-three yards maintained by the Pullman Company throughout the country for the cleaning of cars.

At the end of every trip all seats and cushions are unlimbered, and every cranny is vacuum cleaned. Mattresses, blankets and pillows are hung in the open air and sunlight.

Water coolers are sterilized with steam; the washrooms are cleansed with disinfectant.

At frequent intervals carpets are removed and renovated and the monolithic floor thoroughly scrubbed; the walls and ceilings are washed with soap and water. The polished steel interior of a Pullman is easily kept clean, and cannot shelter germs. Thorough fumigation is given every car regularly.

The laundering of bed linen and blankets is done according to the most exacting standards; the smallest permanent stain or scorching causes them to be discarded. Mattresses, pillows and all upholstery are frequently emptied and renovated.

There is probably no public place where health and cleanliness are more vigilantly guarded than in the Pullman car.

UNDERTAKERS AIR DISPUTE IN COURT OVER FUNERAL OF YEAR AGO.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PASADENA, Feb. 14.—Johnson M. Hart, late resident of Ontario, died and was buried a year ago. Yesterday before Justice R. W. McDonald in Pasadena the funeral ceremony was entirely rehearsed, however, in a civil suit for $200 brought by J. B. Draper, undertaker of Ontario, against Warne and Salisbury, undertakers of Pasadena.

According to the facts set forth by the defense, G. R. Warne of the Pasadena firm was acquainted with the Hart family and was ready to arrange the funeral. He is alleged to have engaged Draper to do the work, furnish a cement casket, etc., and then to have collected a bill of $200.

In accordance with the customs of the "profession" Draper forwarded a bill to Warne for $150, which represented half the profits and the costs. Warne is alleged to have refused to pay Draper.

A crowded courtroom listened with interest to the facts which expert witnesses were called in to testify to relative to overhead and underground expenses of the undertaking business.

Once a grim humor broke the solemnity of the proceedings. I. G. Reynolds, another Pasadena undertaker, was addressed as "Doctor" by A. D. Mitchell, City Attorney of Ontario, who represented Draper. Attorney Mitchell immediately apologized for his inadvertence.

"Oh, that's all right," spoke up Draper, "he follows that profession."

The case was temporarily interred when the court took the matter under advisement.

IRISH TRICK.

"Your Honor, it was a dirty Irish trick," pleaded Mary E. Callaghan, proprietor of a rooming-house at No. 94½ North Fair Oaks avenue in the Police Court yesterday in extenuation of the charge against her of having illegally dispensed liquor.

"Here comes this man, Michael O'Rourke, sure it was a good name he had and I didn't know he was a police officer. Certainly I gave him a drop of whisky and little did I think I'd be hauled before Your Honor because of it. It was no wonder thing for him to do—this imposing his Irish name on the sympathy of a poor working woman.

"O'Rourke, sure, I'd be took in by such a name," continued Mrs. Callahan.

She was sentenced to pay a fine of $125 and prombed to never offend again.

FINAL REPORT.

Proceeds from the football game held in conjunction with the Rose Tournament will total $5267.42 and will be go to the Red Cross. It was announced yesterday by the board of directors of the Tournament. It has been decided to make a permanent entertainment committee for the tourists of Pasadena and a committee headed by Dr. E. T. Malaby has been named to take charge of the arrangements. Associated with him will be George H. Frost, Grant Orth, L. H. Turner and A. J. Bertenneau.

Various outdoor shows are to be provided and it was the sentiment of the Tournament directors meeting that Pasadena has not been doing all that it might in the way of attractive amusement features.

Howard E. Emert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emert, No. 1247 North Michigan avenue, died following an attack of pneumonia at Allentown, Pa., according to word received here last night by his parents. He was a member of the ambulance corps and was 19 years of age. He was prominent in High School athletics and a popular member of the Pasadena younger set.

TWO BADLY INJURED.

Mr. and Mrs. James Dumma, No. 1391 North Catalina avenue, were seriously injured late this afternoon, when a south-bound Pacific Electric car hit their automobile at a point near the Hotel Huntington. Mrs. Dumma suffered two fractured ribs and Mr. Dumma had his left leg broken. According to eyewitnesses Mrs. Dumma was thrown from the machine and crushed between the body of the street car and the automobile. They were taken to the Pasadena Hospital for treatment.

NEW PACKING HOUSE.

Walnut Growers Decide that a Modern Structure is Necessary to Handle Big Crop.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA ANA, Feb. 13.—At a meeting of growers identified with the Santa Ana Valley Walnut Growers Association an unanimous decision was reached in favor of building a big, new, modern packing-house before the opening of the 1918 season. E. C. Martin and W. J. Saunby were appointed as a committee to handle the project. The committee has authority to determine the character, size and location of the plant, which will probably be placed upon Santa Fe property.

The packing-house that has been in use is not large enough to handle the walnuts grown by the members of the association.

It was announced that this year a number of growers on the Irvine ranch would organize a new association and build a packing-house. About 1000 acres will go into the new association.

Hitherto husks of walnuts have been considered worthless. C. Thorpe, manager of the California Walnut Growers Association, to which the individual associations belong, declared that this year he expects to find a market for husks, as it has been found that they are useful in making a stain. This year it was found that the shells taken from walnut cracking plants could be used in packing ammunition, and when a market is found for the hulls there will be nothing about a walnut go to waste.

MEXICANS OBSERVE LINCOLN'S BIRTHDAY.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

RIVERSIDE, Feb. 13.—A spectacle unique in this country was the celebration here last night of Lincoln's birthday by 100 Mexicans. The speaker was Senor J. F. Rodriguez Castillejos, former justice of the Supreme Court of Guatamala, but now a citizen of the United States. Speaking in Spanish, he outlined the life of the martyred President, and sketched the reasons why the United States is at war with Germany. The address was frequently applauded.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

LANKERSHIM, Feb. 13.—At a meeting of ranchers and fruit growers, held Monday evening in the auditorium of the High School, presided over by George H. Prince, with Joseph Cant acting as secretary, a committee was appointed to investigate the co-operative canneries as operated at Hemet and Ontario. Speakers of the evening were Dr. Thompson of Hemet and Mr. Vernon Campbell, president of the California Growers' Association. The committee is composed of G. H. Prince, William Klump, E. J. Albers, E. B. Mitchell and W. H. Davis.

REDLANDS MAN IS GASSED IN FRANCE.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDLANDS, Jan. 13.—Word was been received by C. H. Sargent of Buena Vista street that James Warner, until a short time ago a resident of this city, but who enlisted with the Canadian troops and has been in France several months, was severely gassed in Flanders and is now in a hospital at Colchester, Eng. It is thought that he will recover, although his eyes were badly damaged by the gas.

He was with a scouting party near an abandoned German "pill box" when a mustard shell exploded within a few feet of him. The burning liquid was thrown over him and into his face and eyes before he could get his gas mask adjusted. He soon became unconscious and was carried back to the Canadian trenches by some of his comrades.

He was in hospitals in France for several weeks and a short time ago was sent to Colchester to give his eyes and lungs a chance to recover from the effects of the gas.

LONG BEACH YARDS LAUNCH BIG SHIPS.

THREE FREIGHTERS SLIDE OFF WAYS IN AS MANY DAYS. EVERY DETAIL PERFECT.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONG BEACH, Feb. 13.—Three government vessels have been launched in as many days at the plants of the Long Beach and Craig Shipbuilding companies on Long Beach Harbor. The total value of the ships is $1,547,000.

One of the three was the freighter Silverado, commandeered by the Emergency Fleet Corporation, and valued at $450,000. The other two craft are being completed at a cost of $548,500 each.

The christeners of the three ships, in the order of their launching, were Mrs. I. H. Mayfield, Mrs. Herman Goteman and Mrs. J. Murphy. Mrs. Mayfield and Mrs. Murphy are the wives of naval lieutenants.

Each of the launchings was perfect in every detail, it was announced. The freighter launched Monday of this week will be ready to sail in sixty days. The other two will not be ready for service for perhaps five months.

SUBMARINE DEVICE.

Luther A. Ingersoll, well-known Southern California historian, a resident of this city, received word today from Washington that his recent invention for the protection for transports from submarines had been looked upon favorably by the government and that the apparatus would be put to a final test by the immediate installation on a troop ship "going over."

H. H. Hobson, local realty dealer, with an office at No. 244 American avenue, was arrested late this afternoon by Constable George Austin on the charge of violating the Federal law prohibiting the use of the American flag for advertising purposes.

Hobson had a large pumpkin in his window, upon which was painted an American flag and an inscription advertising his business. The pumpkin was confiscated as evidence and Hobson released on his own recognisance. The minimum fine for such an offense is said to be $200. An old soldier complained of the alleged violation of the Federal statute. Hobson was recently made defendant in a suit for $15,000 for the alleged alienation of the affections of the wife of A. E. Poates of New York.

LOST ON LUCKENBACH.

Alfred Robinson, 22 years old, brother of Mrs. Ben Dawson of No. 326 Daisy avenue, this city, was one of the eight men lost when the American steamer Harry Luckenbach was recently torpedoed off the French coast.

Announcement of the death of the young man, who was a wireless operator aboard the vessel, was received today by Mrs. Dawson from the Marconi Wireless Company.

The death message stated that the youth was last seen when he slid down an incline into the water when the Luckenbach parted amidships and bow and stern rose into the air.

The Luckenbach was of British construction, but of American registry. She was employed in transporting supplies to Pershing's army in France. The vessel was completely shattered by the explosion of the torpedo, the report of the loss of the vessel to Mrs. Dawson explained.

SANTA MONICA REVIVES ANNEXATION MOVEMENT.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA MONICA, Feb. 13. — A movement for the annexation of this city to Los Angeles is again on foot and petitions calling for another election on this question will be out this week, it is expected. John G. Steele and J. J. Seymour, who led the fight for annexation that was lost at the polls last August, are heading the movement. They point out that the experience of Sawtelle in being so promptly supplied with police, and with fire apparatus, after being taken over by the Los Angeles authorities, speaks well for the improvements that may be expected in this city if annexed to the metropolis.

Although the last annexation was lost by a three-to-one vote, the proponents of the movement aver that the substantial financial interests of the town are for it, that the liquor interests that fought against it at the last election, when this city was still wet are now in favor of annexation, as they could then have a table license if annexed, although now they cannot do business here, since the town went bone dry January 1. At the time of the previous election Los Angeles was facing the election that made that city saloonless, and the local liquor men were chary of being annexed with that prospect staring them in the face. Now that Santa Monica is even dryer than the metropolis it is believed that these interests and those favoring a liberal attitude will give active support to the annexation cause.

CALL FOR BIDS ON COUNTY HIGHWAY.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PORTERVILLE, Feb. 13.—Bids have been called by the Board of Supervisors for the construction of the Porterville-Worth division of the system of county highways, which means that within a comparatively short time Porterville will be connected directly with every point of travel over concrete roads. Inception of work on the road to Worth will mean a high-class highway to the various Sierra resorts, in addition to a direct road through the Woodville and Poplar dairy and alfalfa district, north through the county seat and on to San Francisco, and south through the newly developing orange grove district to Los Angeles.

Work on the Worth road is to be begun within thirty days.

NATIONAL PARKS TO BE IMPROVED.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

VISALIA, Feb. 13.—Anticipating a still further growth in the tourist travel to the Tulare county sections of the national parks, the United States government announces plans for further improvement of these national playgrounds as soon as weather will permit.

At Giant Forest work on the government road will be resumed to extend the highway from Wolverton to Marble Fork. This extension will connect with the Tulare county highway system through Big Meadows, thus permitting a continuous trip from the valley through Sequoia Park to Gen. Grant Park. A new administration building is to be constructed in Grant Park and additional facilities will be provided for campers.

LICENSED TO WED AT SANTA ANA.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA ANA, Feb. 13.—Marriage licenses: Stephen A. Underdown, 21, and Nellie Mae McLaughlin, 20, both of Los Angeles; Paul S. Star, 46, and Alice Wood, 46, both of San Diego; Monte H. Logan, 23, and Jane L. Martin, 20, both of Los Angeles.

Made Cleveland Chuckle.

They repeat many stories of the late Private John Allen, but this one always made Grover Cleveland chuckle when he thought of it.

After Cleveland was sent to the White House the residents of Private Allen's home town, Tupelo, Miss., turned their covetous eyes upon the local postoffice. One aspirant was finally leading the race for the appointment so far as Private Allen, then Congressman, was concerned. Allen called on Cleveland in the interest of his selection. The President listened and promised to give the suggestion consideration. A little later the Congressman called again to jog the Executive's memory. At that time Cleveland was on record as a supporter of the civil service and he told Private John so.

"But," said Allen, "Mr. President, my people down there have been waiting thirty years for a Democratic President and they look for me to oust that Republican."

This interview was followed by another and still another. One day Private Allen, after a talk on the subject, said:

"Do you know, this reminds me of a case I had down in Tupelo. A man died and his sons got into a squabble over the estate. One of the sons came to me. I took his case and won it. The others appealed and the matter dragged along. The client came to see me time and again, but I told him he would have to wait for the courts to act. One day after I had repeated this to him he sat meditatively for a few moments and said:

"'Do you know, sometimes I almost wish father hadn't died.'"

President Cleveland sent Allen's man's name to the Senate the next day.—[New York World.

The Human Element in Aviation.

Even the briefest consideration of aerial tactics, either individual or en masse, is sufficient to indicate the complications of the aviator's work. In this more than in any other branch of war activity, the human element is the factor of prime importance. No matter what orders the pilot may have received on the ground, or what plan he may be part of, once the aviator is in the air he is a free agent. Although the nature of his work may require the closest co-operation with his fellows, he is, in a sense, totally cut off from them. Personal contact between individuals, the coordinating factor in other military units, is wholly lacking in this work. Even a ship far at sea is less isolated than an airplane above the clouds; the action of a whole fleet of battleships, scattered over a wide expanse of ocean, can be perfectly controlled by one brain, but the means of communication between airplanes are so rudimentary and insufficient that centralized control is an impossibility. Unlike any other man in the army or navy, an aviator has no superior officer who can think for him; he has only himself to depend on for decisions.

Not every man has in him the makings of an aviator; unless he possesses certain necessary inherent qualities no amount of schooling will make an airman out of him. Unfortunately there are no precise tests that will determine whether a man is fitted for the work or not; often the least promising material develops the most astonishing capabilities. Capt. Guynemer, the French "Ace," was a classic example of the deceptiveness of appearances. At the beginning of the war Guynemer was rejected for all army service, even for clerical work, on the grounds of physical unfitness. He made four unsuccessful attempts to join the Aviation Corps, and was finally accepted only provisionally, more as a reward for his perseverance than for any other reason. Guynemer had just shot down his fifty-eighth "official" German when he was killed. Counting those he shot down too far behind the lines to be reported, it is estimated that he had destroyed the equivalent of at least ten German squadrons. — [Frederic W. Zinn, French aviator, in Leslie's.

PETAIN GIVES IDEA IN VERY FEW WORDS.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

PARIS, Nov. 4.—Modesty is one of the characteristics of Gen. Petain, commander-in-chief of the French armies operating in France. It is reported that, after one of his brilliant military successes on the western front, which led to his appointment to supreme active command, he was asked by a military writer to furnish him with a few autobiographic notes. The general courteously replied with this laconic message:

"Petain, general of division. Born April 24, 1856. Died ——."

BEST LIVER AND BOWEL LAXATIVE FOR FAMILY USE

"Cascarets" regulate women, men and children without injury.

Take when bilious, headachy, for colds, bad breath, sour stomach.

Instead of nasty, harsh pills, salts, castor oil or dangerous calomel, why don't you keep Cascarets handy in your home? Cascarets act on the liver and thirty feet of bowels so gently you don't realize you have taken a cathartic, but they act so thoroughly and can be depended upon when a good liver and bowel cleansing is necessary—they move the bile and poison from the bowels without griping and sweeten the stomach. You eat one or two at night like candy and you wake up feeling fine, the headache, biliousness, bad health, coated tongue, sour stomach, constipation or bad cold disappears. Mothers should give cross, sick, feverish or bilious children a whole Cascaret any time—they are harmless and safe for the little folks.

Man Files Two Actions for Divorce and His Wife Asks for Separate Maintenance.

The rule of three is apropos in the case of the Billingtons. Theodore Billington is a retired rancher, once of Covina. Three years ago he was denied a decree of divorce from Jennie M. Billington on the ground of mental cruelty. Then Mrs. Billington sued for separate maintenance and she was granted alimony of $50 a month, which Mr. Billington has been paying for two years.

Yesterday Mr. Billington filed his second suit for divorce, making serious charges this time. A man is said to be named in the complaint prepared by Attorneys Adams, Adams and Binford, and Mrs. Billington is also charged with habitual intemperance.

Important.

TO TELL POST WAR PROBLEMS.

Dean of University will Give Lecture to Farmers.

Reassimilation of Soldiers to be the Theme.

Will Explain Canada's Plans to Help Returned Men.

Dean Hunt's address on "Canada at War," to be given at the Los Angeles High School auditorium at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, will give something of the plans of the Canadian government for the returning soldiers. Already this problem has loomed up in America, and every belligerent country has laid plans for the reassimilating of millions of men in the army and employed in industries dependent upon the war.

The problem is a stupendous one and unless properly handled will create a social problem that will be extremely serious. Canada has arranged for the re-education of her soldiers. Government aid in land settlement and colonization is a big part of the Canadian problem and will undoubtedly be an important factor in the reassimilating of the men in America when the war is over. This has loomed up as an important rural problem and every farmer should be conversant with both the plans to be carried out in other countries, especially our neighboring country—Canada—and plans which are proposed in America.

Although the changes that have been made in the normal run of events in America by the war are vast, the readjustment that will be necessary following the war involves problems that so far have not been met. On this account the address by Dean Hunt is of particular interest to the farmers in America, and the people in this section are fortunate in being able to have this first-hand presentation of the viewpoint of the Canadian government in this big problem.

The lecture will be given in two parts, each taking thirty-five minutes. In order that the programme may proceed on schedule and that there will be no disturbance by late arrivals, the committee urges that everyone be on time. Doors will be closed at the end of the first series of patriotic songs and remain closed during the first part of the lecture, in order that those present may not be disturbed by late arrivals. The auditorium may be reached by taking the West Eleventh-street car. Persons in machines may follow this car line.

ASKS JURY TRIAL.

Justice Cassidy of Huntington Park yesterday continued until March 6 the case of Baron Long, who is charged with conducting gambling at the Vernon Country Club. It is understood that the continuance was forced by the action of the defendant's counsel in demanding a jury trial.

Mr. Long was arrested at the Vernon resort following an investigation conducted by Capt. J. D. Hunter, acting on authority of the District Attorney. It was alleged by the officers that they found gambling in full operation. Mr. Long is being prosecuted under "the banking and percentage game" prohibition clause.

CASE CONTINUED.

Because of the illness of Judge Houser, the long-deferred trial of Dr. L. O. Wilcoxon, accused of defrauding Mrs. Bessie Hale out of $500, was continued yesterday by Superior Judge Myers. Judge Houser is planning to return to court tomorrow in order to dispose of other business so as to pave the way for an uninterrupted hearing of the Wilcoxon case.

Best Way to Wash the Hair.

We find you can bring out the beauty of your hair to its very best advantage by washing it with Canthrox. It makes a very simple, inexpensive, shampoo, which cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly of all the dandruff, dirt and excess oil, leaving a wonderfully clean, wholesome feeling. After its use you will find that the hair dries quickly and evenly, is never streaked in appearance, and is always bright, soft and fluffy, so fluffy, in fact, that it looks more abundant than it is, and so soft that arranging it becomes a pleasure. Just use a teaspoonful of Canthrox, which you can get from any good druggist, dissolve it in a cup of hot water; this makes a full cup of shampoo liquid, enough so it is easy to apply to all the hair, instead of just the top of the head.—[Advertisement.

Alum Water for Gray Hair

Restores natural color in all shades, except black. Dissolve some ovelo powder in water; moisten the hair with the solution and, while damp, rinse the hair in alum water, then in plain water, then dry the hair. It acts like magic. The hair will stay natural in color, fluffy, glossy, clean and odorless, with a clean scalp. Ovelo powder solution is strictly harmless; a child can drink it. Ask your druggist for one bottle of ovelo powder, with directions.

CHANGE CATTLE BRAND?

Father, Mother and Son Arrested on Charge Made by Glendale Rancher.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Gillibrand and their son, John Doe Bowe Gillibrand, who conducted a public cattle pasture in the Santa Susanna district of Ventura county until it was recently closed because of anthrax, will be given a preliminary hearing before Justice Walter Hanby this afternoon on a charge of cattle-brand altering.

The complaint against them was filed by W. J. Blanchard of Glendale, and the arrests were made by Constables Woodbury and Hayes. Mr. Blanchard alleges that he placed nine cattle in the Gillibrand pasture, with "B" brands upon them. After anthrax broke out and the State Veterinarian ordered the pasture closed, he says he got back three head and that he was told the others were dead.

Since that time, he alleges, he found four of his cattle in a corral near Marian, about twenty-two miles from the Gillibrand pasture. According to his allegation, the "B" brand had been made into a "V," which bears evidence of being a re-brand.

BEGIN BURGLARY TRIAL.

Paul Hermkes was placed on trial yesterday before a jury in Judge Willis's court on a charge of burglary. According to the complaint, Hermkes is alleged to have entered the Hotel Leighton on June 18, 1917, and robbed Mrs. Marie Haas of a pair of diamond ear-rings valued at $4000, two diamond rings belonging to Mrs. W. C. Mrsell and $100 in currency. The victims were guests at the hotel.

SECOND ESCAPE FROM ASYLUM.

Man Sent to Patton for Sending an Obscene Letter, Flees.

Information was received here yesterday that Edward Holt, who was committed to Patton on an insanity warrant, escaped from that institution Monday night. It is Holt's second get-away from a similar institution, he having escaped from the Colorado State Hospital, about a year ago.

Holt was charged with sending an improper letter through the mails to G. White Mortimer, the British Consul, but the mental condition of the man was such that an insanity complaint was sworn out against him and he was sent to Patton.

SOLDIER CRAZED?

Member of Eastern Unit on the Way to Camp Kearny Taken from Railroad Train Here.

William O. Snyder, a drafted man 20 years old, giving his residence as No. 525 North Hermitage street, Chicago, was taken from the Southern Pacific overland train yesterday afternoon by Lieut. Best and a squad of soldiers from Camp Kearny. He is held at the Receiving Hospital on suspicion of insanity.

It took five men to overpower and handcuff Snyder when the train arrived. He was with two carloads of troops en route West from Fort Scott, where he reported for duty on the 8th inst. For thirty-six hours the man had been babbling incoherently, and the other troops became alarmed about his condition.

When examined at the Receiving Hospital, Snyder talked of many things and could not connect one thought with another. He had an idea that he was on Van Buren street in Chicago, and told the officers he was running away from his brother, who had hammered him over the back with a club.

DAMAGES FOR BEATING.

Chinaman Secures Compensation for Attack of Policeman During Raid on Opium Joint.

Lo Yim, who charged that he was beaten and choked by Policeman D. McD. Jones, following a raid on an alleged opium joint, was awarded $150 damages by a jury in Judge Myers's court yesterday against Policeman Jones. Lo Yim claimed he was assaulted without provocation.

The defendant declared that he used only necessary force to disarm the Chinaman and that at the time he was searching for contraband opium.

The jury allowed Lo Yim $50 of the $150 as punitive damages.

AFTER SHORT ILLNESS.

Mother-in-Law of Judge Bledsoe Dies at His Home—No Court will be Held Today.

Following a short illness, Mrs. J. W. Shetler, mother of Mrs. Benjamin F. Bledsoe, expired at the home of Federal Judge Bledsoe, No. 501 South Alexandria avenue, late last night.

The deceased, who was 77 years old, had been visiting her daughter and son-in-law only a short time when she was stricken, succumbing to an attack of heart disease. She came to Southern California from Council Bluffs, Iowa, for her visit. When she became ill, her husband was notified and he arrived from the East yesterday.

Funeral arrangements have not yet been made, but interment probably will be on Friday. On account of the death, Judge Bledsoe will hold no sessions of his branch of the United States District Court today.

CAN'T MOVE "DERBY."

Judge Rules Amusement Device is Permanent Improvement of Ocean Park Pier.

Improvements estimated to be worth $10,000, constructed by Thomas W. Prior on ground owned by the Fraser Million Dollar Pier Company, were adjudged by Judge Shenk yesterday to belong to the company under the terms of a lease. The lease provided that all the improvements on the leased grounds were attached to the property of the pier company.

When the lease terminated Mr. Prior proceeded to remove the "Great American Derby," one of the attractions of the building, from Santa Monica to Venice after Santa Monica went dry, and then tried to take down the building, when he was restrained by a court order.

The pier company brought suit. Mr. Prior claimed that the building was not a permanent improvement, as contemplated by the lease. Judge Shenk held that the character of the construction constituted a permanent improvement, was attached, to the realty, and enjoined Mr. Prior from tearing it down.

ROAD WINS DECISION.

A jury in Judge Monroe's court returned a vedict yesterday in favor of the Pacific Electric in the suit of Moses Hyman, 74 years old, who was injured when he tried to get on a car on Hill street. The corporation showed that the car was in motion at the time the attempt to board it was made.

Fight Claim.

DECLARE DEATH NOT ACCIDENT.

Insurance Company Makes Sensational Charge.

Says Husband Intentionally Shot Hilda Throop.

Suit to Collect on Policy Begins Today.

The suit of Charles B. Throop, set for Judge Dehy's court this morning, to collect from the Western Indemnity Company two policies of insurance on the life of his wife, Hilda E. Throop, aggregating $12,000, will range around the sensational allegation, on information and belief, that Mrs. Throop's death was not accidental, as Mr. Throop declares in his complaint. Other sensational evidence is promised.

Attorney Duke Stone, representing the defendant company, alleges in an answer to the complaint "that the death of Hilda E. Throop was due to the intentional infliction of an injury upon her by means of a shotgun in the hands of the plaintiff," and that by reason thereof "the plaintiff is liable to the defendant for nothing under the policies, or, if found to be, not to exceed one-tenth of the amount."

Mrs. Throop was shot in Riverside county on September 13, 1914, and died from her wounds ninety days later.

Swannick & Donnelly, attorneys for Mr. Throop, will submit the records of the Coroner of Riverside county, which exonerated Mr. Throop of any blame for the death of his wife. They say that on the day that Mrs. Throop was shot, Mr. Throop was preparing to go hunting. Mrs. Throop told her husband to wash the dishes before he went. He refused to do it under the circumstances. The young folks had a fuss, and in Mrs. Throop's struggle to get the gun from her husband it was accidentally discharged, to the great grief of Mr. Throop.

He married some time after the death of his wife and, according to Attorney Stone, some of the evidence the latter will seek to introduce has a bearing on this second love affair.

SHAKE-UP COMING?

Receiving Hospital "Bunch" Should be "Wiped Out," Says City Councilman.

Another shake-up in the Receiving Hospital staff was presaged yesterday when Councilman Olsen at a meeting of the Finance Committee declared that "the whole bunch should be wiped out." He made the remark in connection with a statement by another member to the effect that the controversy between Chief Surgeon Gilmer and Assistant Surgeon Dieterle had been patched up.

"Politics was behind their trouble," Councilman Mallard said. "Yes, I guess that is true," Mr. Olsen replied, "and before it is over the whole bunch will be shaken up."

DENIES INJUNCTION.

Judge Orders Trial of Suit Charging that One Company Stole the Records of Another.

Judge Jackson yesterday overruled the demurrer of Ben Cohen and the Chauncey G. Hale Company against the complaint of the George L. Arnold Company, loan brokers, and denied the injunction asked for by the Arnold company to restrain the defendants from prosecuting suits against the corporation on the ground of conspiracy. The case will go to trial on its merits.

It is alleged in the complaint that Chauncey G. Hale was at one time vice-president and book-keeper of the Arnold company; that he quit and organized the Chauncey G. Hale Company. It is further stated that he compiled lists of names, addresses and places of employment of Arnold company's customers, in violation of an alleged agreement, and that the defendants conspired and combined to prosecute sixty-six suits in the justice court to collect excess interest from Arnold company on sums ranging from $8 to $298.20, aggregating $3136.47.

FOR STEALING BEANS.

Found with seven empty sacks in their possession as they emerged from the shop of a junk dealer at No. 152 North Anderson street, William Curtis and James Green were arrested yesterday by Deputy Sheriffs Couts and Anderson. They are charged with suspicion of grand larceny for having stolen thirteen sacks of beans.

In France.

MILLIONAIRE'S DAUGHTER WILL DRIVE WAR TRUCK.

MISS RUTH PEABODY, daughter of Frederick Peabody, millionaire shirt manufacturer of Troy, N. Y., will next month be driving one of the motor trucks her father has donated to the French Hospital Relief Association, which has headquarters at Paris, France. She and her father arrived here last night from New York, registering at the Alexandria.

According to Mr. Peabody, there are twenty hospitals south of Paris that are entirely dependent upon American donations for support. These hospitals are kept up by the Mayfair War Relief Association, composed entirely of Americans. Tons of medical supplies are assembled at New York and shipped free by the French Atlantic Steamship Company to France.

Several American women are now engaged in transporting these supplies from the receiving sheds and warehouses at Havre and other ports to the different hospitals. This is the work Miss Ruth Peabody, who is only 22 years old, has undertaken. She will pilot the machine her father donated.

The Peabodys will spend a few weeks with a daughter, Mrs. Ogilvey of Santa Barbara.

Big Rock Creek.

IRRIGATION DISTRICT'S OFFICIALS ARE OUSTED.

WILLIAM A. ENGLE, George Milligan, Charles C. Page and Lee H. Dawson were ousted from the directorate of the Big Rock Creek irrigation district in Antelope Valley in an opinion handed down by Judge Finlayson yesterday. Unless an appeal is taken this writes finis to the fight which has been waged in Antelope Valley against seating certain men on the board of directors on the ground that they were not eligible to the office.

G. C. Chase was back of the proceedings, which came before the court in the shape of a suit by the people, known as quo warranto proceedings. There was a hot fight before the Board of Supervisors recently, when Mr. Engle, secretary of Job Harriman's Socialistic colony near Palmdale, succeeded in getting his man on the board. It was held at that time that this man was not a resident of the district.

The Big Rock Creek irrigation district was organized July 14, 1890. December 30, 1914, the Board of Supervisors appointed the defendants as directors of the district. It was alleged then that they were not residents of or freeholders in the irrigation district; that they were unlawfully holding office.

Judge Finlayson upholds this claim although the defendants own pieces of land within the exterior boundaries of the district. He holds that such parcels never were parts of the district and that none of the defendants ever became a resident or freeholder.

At the time the district was created, "the parcel of land upon which each of the defendants resided was unpatented land of the United States upon which neither final payment nor final proof had been made, and not until some time after the district was created and organized were any of the parcels patented by any of the defendants."

Public land of the United States, situated within the exterior boundaries of an irrigation district, the opinion states, cannot be included in the district as a constituent part of it.

Judge Finlayson sets out that by the removal of the directors of the district the latter is not without government. The vacancies can be filled by the Supervisors by the appointment of qualified residents and freeholders.

TWO HUNDRED MILLIONS IS KEARNY'S INSURANCE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CAMP KEARNY, Feb. 13.—Is insurance gambling? Army officers discovered today in rounding up men who had not taken out government insurance, that conscientious objectors have other personal and religious scruples than not desiring to fight. The objectors, twenty-eight in number, all of whom have been given the job of bearing stretchers, are opposed to insurance as they "do not believe in gambling on something that depends upon the will of the Almighty."

The objectors, whep summoned before Maj.-Gen. Frederick S. Strong, commander, in his personal campaign to have the entire Sunshine Division insured, gave that as their reason for not taking out the policies provided for soldiers.

In spite of this attitude, only 1.13 per cent. of the entire number of men in the division were not insured when count was taken this afternoon by Capt. T. H. A. Tiedemann, a Los Angeles man, who has been in charge of the campaign. The total amount of insurance for Camp Kearny, according to figures this afternoon, is estimated as $216,449,500, or an average of $9002 per man per application. This makes 98.69 per cent. of the men in camp undog government insurance, and 98.87 per cent. of them in the Fortieth Division, which excludes the remount station, the base hospital and the camp quartermaster.

The One Hundred and Forty-third Machine Gun Battalion, formerly the First New Mexico Infantry, stood highest with 100 per cent., all of the 448 men and 69 officers taking out $10,000 insurance. One officer who had not taken a policy because he did not wish to obligate the government, being wealthy, was found after midnight this morning and he telephoned by long distance for an application.

It is thought this camp will stand highest in United States in percentage of men who take out applications. Gen. Strong has spent much time during the past week in seeing that every man possible was given insurance, if only to protect him in case of disability by injury.

Last night an order was issued that every man in the camp who had not taken out insurance should appear before the commanding general that night. Accordingly, Gen. Strong was busy until after midnight. He discovered some peculiar attitudes regarding insurance. One man was a fatalist. He said that if he were disabled he would end all by poison, which was scoffed at by the insurance officers.

The conscientious objectors were SAYS WE'LL STAY ON TOP OF WORLD IN FINANCE.

Vast Drain of War will not Affect Our Position, Declares Vanderlip. Scouts Hog Island Talk.

"THE financial condition of the United States is admirable," yesterday declared Frank A. Vanderlip, chairman of the United States War Savings Certificate Commission and one of the country's greatest financiers. Mr. Vanderlip is a guest of friends here on a brief visit.

"The American dollar has usurped the English pound, as the base of international exchange, and there is little likelihood that we will relinquish our leadership in the financial world," he said.

"The American public is getting used to thinking in terms of a million, yet it really is an incomprehensible sum. Although the government has and will pass enormous appropriations for the continuance of the war there need be no fear of a money stringency. Our credit is unprecedented, and practically unlimited. Nearly every country is our debtor. It has been said that the United States is financing our Allies and this is literally the truth."

THRIFT DRIVE BOOMING.

On the subject of the thrift campaign, Mr. Vanderlip is enthusiastic. "The prospect of an oversubscription of the $2,000,000,000 loan, the aim of the administration, is excellent," he declared. "There has already been subscribed over $50,000,000 and it is averaging an increase of $2,000,000 per day. At Washington we have a chart showing the gain day by day, and all of us in charge of the work there are delighted with the progress being made.

"When one realizes that this sum is coming in in denominations of quarters and dollars, that the entire sum is being given to the government by those who can only afford a fraction of a dollar at a time, then one realizes that the entire nation is united in the support of the government in its war policy. It is a wonderful manifestation of the real pulse of the people."

AS TO HOG ISLAND.

There was no ground for a senatorial investigation of the alleged profiteering in the sale of lands where the Hog Island shipyard is being built at Philadelphia, according to Mr. Vanderlip, who was mentioned at the hearing as being a member of the company interested in the property.

"The purchase of all lands used by the Hog Island shipyard were made on the plans approved by the Federal Shipping Board. Not a penny was made by the company in the erection of the yard. The profits are based entirely on a commission basis for each ship turned out. At present there are 32,000 men employed, and it is the largest shipyard in the world. The schedule laid down by the government as to the speed expected has been exceeded.

NOT A "WRECK."

"The statement that I am a nervous wreck is far from the truth," he added. "I have been steadily on the job for the last two years without a vacation and am worn down, but not a wreck. Ever since I took charge of the office at Wash-

Need Food Crops.

SEES ENEMY PROPAGANDA IN CASTOR-BEAN APPEAL.

BRANDING as German propaganda some of the literature that has been urging farmers to grow castor beans for the government, instead of food crops, B. R. Crocheron, State leader of farm advisers, yesterday at San Bernardino declared that the government absolutely does not wish to close any more contracts for castor beans, the oil from which is adaptable for use in airplane motors.

"It is true the government has to get a supply of the oil for the increased demand resulting from the war, but early requests from the Agriculture and War departments brought so many responses from farmers that a sufficient supply was secured," he said.

Prof. Crocheron accompanied Dean Thomas Forsythe Hunt of the University College of Agriculture to San Bernardino, where a patriotic rally of farmers was held yesterday afternoon with more than 500 attending. Dean Hunt outlined what Canada is doing toward increased crops during the war in a spirited address impressing the San Bernardino county ranchers with the necessity of backing up the government by scientific farming and co-operative efforts through the farm bureaus, of which there are fully forty in this State.

BEET GROWERS CHALLENGE FIGURES OF REFINERS

Federal Commission Asked not to Take Their Production-Cost Estimates in Ranchers' Absence.

W. A. ROWE, a sugar beet grower in the Oxnard district, created a ripple of excitement at the sugar beet inquiry yesterday afternoon when he testified that the company to which he sells his beets sent its agriculturist to him, asked for an estimate of production cost, and sent it back to him after it had been submitted in detail, saying that it was not satisfactory. The cost of various items such as plowing and harvesting was said to be entirely too high.

This piece of testimony came to light when S. R. Pidduck of Oxnard asked the commission to not take into consideration any growing cost statements that might be submitted by the sugar companies unless the ranchers involved by the statements were on hand to say whether or not they gave such statements voluntarily and vouched for their accuracy. He was told that all such statements would be gone over with the ranchers. He raised the point that the ranchers involved might not be in attendance. Then he asked that Mr. Rowe be given a chance to tell about the cost sheet that was secured from him.

"When the beet company agriculturist or field agent came and asked me to submit a production estimate I worked one out and sent it in at once. Within a day or two it came back and I was asked to make out another one. I was told that my estimates were entirely too high in several instances. I told the factory representative that if I had it to do over again I'd raise the estimates in several instances because of increased cost on several items."

NEW COST SHEET.

When asked if he made out a new cost sheet, Mr. Rowe said that he did, but stated that it had not been offered in evidence by the sugar company attorneys.

William Friedrich of Ventura told the commission that he was assisted by a sugar factory representative in making out his cost sheet for last year's production. He figured plowing at $3.88 per acre, while nearly all the other ranchers have figured it at from $4.50 to $5. Finally he said that his time on the plow had not been counted in, because he was to get his wages out of profits.

His cost sheet showed that he produced fifty-six acres of beets for $51.91 per acre and that he sold the crop for $111.35 per acre. It was apparently a big profit.

Gradually the facts in the case were unraveled before the commission, and Mr. Friedrich admitted that the crop had been produced by summer fallowing. In summer fallowing the rancher plows and works his soil all one summer and lets it lie idle till the next winter. Then he plants a crop of beets and harvests them the following summer and fall. In reality his land lies idle a year—it takes him two years to grow the one crop of beets. By summer fallowing he gets a heavier tonnage and usually a higher sugar test, but his labor and the interest on his investment for two years must be charged against one crop. The Friedrich chart listed planting at 28 cents an acre. Practically all the other growers who have testified put it in at from 40 to 50 cents.

TELLS OF PROFITS.

Mr. Rowe submitted his total cost of production at $76.55 an acre. J. H. Eastwood of Oxnard said it cost him $72.51 to grow an acre of beets and that his crop last year brought him $93.11 an acre. He grew 288 acres. H. C. Beasley in the same district grew seventy-six acres at a cost of $34.66 an acre, but admitted that the factory solved the labor problem for him. He sold his beets for $45.66 an acre. R. L. Beardsley of Oxnard testified that he produced ninety acres of beets for about $50 an acre and sold them for $102 an acre.

The inquiry today will include the taking of testimony from Chino, Santa Ana and Huntington Beach ranchers, regarding the cost of production. It is barely possible that the hearing here will terminate this evening. The commission expects to open its inquiry at Stockton not later than Saturday morning.

CALLED TO WASHINGTON.

Mr. Vanderlip will make several speeches on the war savings campaign on his way back East. He is scheduled to address the Rotary Club of Santa Barbara, and it is likely that he will be secured to speak before the local Rotarians before he leaves.

COMPANY LOSES SUIT FOR SUGAR BURNED.

On the ground that there was no negligence on the part of Carl Leonardt and that the origin of the fire was unknown that partially destroyed his warehouse and sugar belonging to the Holly Sugar Company valued at $40,000, Judge Shenk gave judgment in favor of Mr. Leonardt yesterday. The suit was brought by the corporation to recover the value of the sugar destroyed. A breach of contract was alleged; also that the contract called for the storage of the sugar in a fireproof warehouse.

Tables Turned.

OWN POSTCARD CONVICTS MAN.

Alibi of Accused Causes His Undoing in Court.

Charged with Auto Theft He Says He Wasn't Here.

But, Alas, His Missive Shows Where it Came From.

His own postcard proved the undoing of William Dersch, who was adjudged guilty by a jury in Judge McCormick's courtroom yesterday afternoon on a charge of stealing an automobile from C. H. Howard on October 27, last. Sentence will be pronounced tomorrow.

Dersch attempted to prove an alibi by means of a card which he testified he sent from Atolia, San Bernardino county, to Miss Katie Weiss, whose address appeared on the card as No. 1635½ East Twenty-first street. Both Miss Weiss and her mother testified that the card had been received by them about the time the machine was stolen, a day or so after it had been returned to the sender by the postal authorities because of wrong address.

All went well with the defense up to this point. Then Asst. Dist.-Atty. Clark, at the afternoon session, called in Milton Carlson, a handwriting expert, who during the noon hour had made an examination of the postcard. He disclosed traces of a Los Angeles address, ostensibly written by Dersch and erased, to which the postal rubber "return" stamp pointed.

Directory Inspector Colby of the postoffice corroborated Carlson's testimony by showing that it would have been impossible for anyone but the original sender to have received the postcard. Mr. Clark, addressing the jury at the conclusion of the trial, severely reprimanded the defendant and the women witnesses, hinting that their testimony was not correct.

The case has attracted considerable interest because of a tragedy which resulted in the death of Carlos Cona, who was arrested with Dersch and charged jointly with him with the theft of the automobile.

At the preliminary hearing Cona was released from custody. This happened on a Saturday. The following day Cona's dead body was found in Huntington Park, having apparently been murdered. Dersch was rearrested on a charge of suspicion of murder, but the complaint was later dismissed through lack of evidence.

SPRING DRIVE OF SPEEDERS IS ON.

Seventy Cases up in Court and Many Fines are Imposed.

The great "Spring Drive" of speeders commenced before Justice Hanby yesterday morning when the court disposed of seventy speed cases with fines ranging from $5 to $30.

William Castellanos, recently arrived from Mexico and now a student in a military academy here, told the court that he understood that speed laws in America, outside of the larger cities, were on the wide-open plan. He was caught going fifty miles an hour on the Wilshire boulevard. He received a fine of $30 and a sentence of thirty days, suspended by the court because young Castellanos has been called to the draft.

A GOOD PLACE TO EAT

"A Word to the Wise"

EVERY once in a while we run across some one who says that he has just carried his first tray of food. We suppose if it were not for an occasional example of this kind to remind us of new people to be influenced by our messages, we would stop advertising—for really it is useless to advertise to the man or woman "Who Knows."

There is a heap of satisfaction and pleasure in eating in one of our dining rooms. Besides all this, the Boos Bros.' "SELF-SERVICE" plan is in line with Government conservation of both Food and Labor.

YVETTE, THE WOMAN.

PORTRAIT OF GUILBERT IN HER WHITE WAIST.

By Jeanne Redman.

To one who has seen Yvette Guilbert only on the stage, it will sound like sacrilege to say that in private life she is not beautiful, and that even her hands, about which Arthur Symonds wrote his famous poem, are not noticeable for their grace and loveliness—that they are positively commonplace in appearance—but these are the facts, and they go to prove the extraordinary art of the wonderful woman. It is easy to be exquisite in appearance if one is born so, but Guilbert's art is an improvement upon nature—as Whistler claimed his was.

After having seen Guilbert several times on the stage, I approached her with the conviction that when she walked she was surrounded by protective spirits who kept common things away from her, and that she wore always soft, diaphanous things in pastel shades, or marvelous brocades stiff with embroidery. But she doesn't—she wears a brown tailored suit of some unwieldy woolen stuff, which refuses to accommodate itself to her figure, and she wears a machine-made white waist—not a blouse, just an ordinary waist—and a stiff, black straw hat, untrimmed and sailor-shaped, and tied under her chin, a black mesh veil, which almost conceals her really beautiful red hair. Can you see her, the simple woman, without a sign of France about her except when she speaks and shrugs? She wears, also, a broad gold band, one of the flat kind, on her finger.

After I had shaken off my surprise, and readjusted my point of view, and come to regard Guilbert as the most human of all possible human beings, I still felt myself at a disadvantage, as though I had been deceived, which was exactly the wrong thing to feel, for, heaven knows, we were on a much better footing than if one of us had been protected by invisible spirits. Guilbert will not have any nonsense about herself; she does not wish to be regarded as a miracle or as rare gift of God, but as a woman who has earned her position by her extraordinary labors, and that they have been extraordinary, nobody who hears her can doubt.

"I have prepare seven yare for my first concert," she said, "that is for the one when I make my first beg beer." Guilbert's English is a thing to wonder at—it serves her in English-speaking countries little better than French. Surely the most meager French scholar would understand Yvette better in her own tongue than in ours. But her English is fascinating as a baby's, and she is to talk next Saturday about the great men of her acquaintance in Paris, when she was a young girl, singing in a music hall, and who the men were, Daudet, Zola, and others, that wished to build for her a theater in which no one else would sing; but Yvette did not relish the idea, and answered with extraordinary naivette, "any place w'ere I sing eet is a temple, n'est pas?"

Guilbert has taught herself nearly everything she knows. She wanted to be different from the other girls in the music hall, and to act her songs as well as to sing them, and she began to study and to search in the libraries for old manuscripts which she found in plenty, but which looked like stenographic notes, as music did in those days and which Madame described as "leetle - scratches." These notes Guilbert transcribed herself, and translated the old words into the modern French so that all Paris could enjoy them, and finally all the world. The old music had no indications of tempo, either, for the most of it, and that was "of a difficultay," which could only be described by a shrug—but all these obstacles have been conquered, and Yvette Guilbert's art is perfected, and brings with it the satisfaction of a knowledge that nowhere on earth has she an imitator worthy of the name, or a possible competitor.

Guilbert adores, with all the enthusiasm of her nature, the Californian personality (she mentioned it—I did not,) and the climate. She is something, very much, in fact, of a poet, and her description of Chicago in the recent blizzard was wonderful.

"Think of it as a dead city," she said, "a dead city of snow. Not a man, woman or child in the usually busiest streets for hours and hours at a time. Not a tram, not a taxi, the schools closed, the theaters closed, nothing anywhere but snow." Yvette lowered her voice until I felt as though I were enveloped in a shroud. She can do anything with her voice of a thousand colors and intonations. There is no emotion she cannot express, and she is always just a little unexpected, for she is always exactly the perfection of French taste, which is the best taste in the world. Her singing of the "Marseillaise" was not the sort of thing one would imagine in the least. She sang it as a Breton peasant woman might sing it, with a passion of rage as well as of patriotism, but back of the rage was the pride which is the essence of the French and which is manifest, as every quality of her country, is manifest, in the "Chanteuse Divin."

WHISPERS. by the Village Post.

Up In San Francisco last week Chet Withey's company was working on the wharves, by permission of the government. As the company watched the unloading of a huge case marked "dynamite," an Irish laborer accidentally knocked it over.

"We lived nine million years in the next nine seconds," declares Mr. Withey, "and then I inquired of the Irishman: 'Why didn't that explode?'

"The Irishman looked me over. 'Why, hell,' he said, 'you don't need no noise like that in the silent drama!'"

William S. Hart to ingenue: I hear Theda Bara is going to put on "Salome."

Ingenue: W-w-well, I'm glad she's going to put on something!

It's a nice thing to own a beautiful residence out there in Hollywood—there are so many motion-picture stars who need homes.

One of D. W. Griffith's chauffeurs was told to call up a garage yesterday and order a taxi for 3 o'clock. "Pico 200," he called, "Send a taxi to Griffith's studio at 3 o'clock."

Later in the day he was told to remind the garage about the taxi. "Pico 200," he called, and when he got the number, "Don't you forget!"

Douglas Fairbanks (on location at the aqueduct:) Chasers, chasers, everywhere, and not a drink to chase!

RAILROAD MEN BUY "SMILES."

T. C. Peck, chairman of the Railroad Committee in the Smileage Book campaign, is conducting a vigorous canvass among all of the railroad men of Los Angeles and its vicinity and reports that everyone is showing interest. It is expected that the railroad fraternity will make equally as good a showing in the Smileage Book returns as has been evidenced in every other case where an appeal has been made to their loyalty.

MANY GOOD THINGS.

FARE FOR YOU AND ME AND T'OTHER FELLOW.

Orpheum.

With the exception of one act, the bill to be offered at the Orpheum for the week beginning next Monday matinee, will be new. Allan Brooks returns with his very unusual humorous tragedy in four scenes, "Dollars and Sense," a novel playlet. Bessie Rempel, whose sister Harriet was recently here, comes next week in "You," a symbolic playlet by that same sister Harriet, who is the playwright of the family. George Austin Moore, and Cordenia Haager, come to amuse with negro stories, songs and patter. Comfort and King will be seen in an unusual darky skit, "Coon Town Divorcons," a constant laugh. The "Five o' Clubs" is not a card act, but five persons present "Pierrot's Dream" under this name. Doc O'Neil, comes with new doses of laughter, and Isabelle D'Armand, with Darrell, her partner, will present a "Demi-tasse Revue." Joseph E. Howard's revue will be the only holdover.

Morosco.

"Seven Chances," the smart farce-comedy by Roi Cooper Megrue, is making its first Western appearance this week at the Morosco, where it met with instant success upon the occasion of its first presentation last Sunday afternoon. Built for laughing purposes only, "Seven Chances" affords more laughs for its size than any production that Los Angeles has enjoyed for many weeks. In the original New York production of this play, the celebrated funmaker, Frank Craven, played the leading male role. Richard Dix is playing this role in the production at the Morosco, and the critics are united in their appreciation of his work. Bertha Mann is appearing in the role which was originally played by another Los Angeles favorite, Carroll McComas.

Mason.

That a great proportion of Los Angeles treasures memories of old-fashioned mothers and boyhood sweethearts is interestingly proven by the sensational success of "Turn to the Right," at the Mason. This fragrant comedy-drama of the peach orchard and farm kitchen is largely dependent upon its appeal to city dwellers who have at some time in their lives known the homely joys of farm or village life, and from the box office statements at the Mason it would appear that these form a large majority of the city's amusement-seekers. The engagement will terminate with the Saturday performances, matinee and night, and a heavy advance sale forecasts disappointment for many late comers. "Turn to the Right" has already broken the season's records at the Mason.

Majestic.

There has not been in Los Angeles in many moons so clean, bright and funny a farce as John Cort's roaring comedy, "Johnny Get Your Gun," which will begin the third week of its limited engagement at the Majestic, next Sunday night. Crowded houses at every performance tell the story of the solid success of this delightful gloom-chaser. Louis Hennison scores heavily in this laughing sensation. His performance sparkles with cleverness, and his interpretation of the role of Johnny Wiggins, the real live cowboy from the "wild and woolly," has led critics everywhere to predict stardom for him.

Burbank.

A regular patron of the Burbank remarked last week as he stepped out of the theater, "How do they do it?" For it is a big question to all who have seen the good vaudeville shows at the family playhouse, how the small price of admission can give them such an enjoyable two-hours' performance. This week's bill is without doubt the best offered yet. There are two big headliners, "The Classy Musical Revue," and Jessie Southerland & Company, in "The Diving Venus," with a big tank in full view of the audience. There are other good acts on the bill, with a photoplay feature.

Pantages.

Pantages boasts of a really high-class vaudeville show this week. George Primrose, the dean of minstrels, is presenting a tabloid minstrel show with seven capable singers and dancers. Jan Rubini, a violinist from Stockholm, is perhaps the most talented musician Pantages has ever presented. There is a clever comedy sketch. Harry Reichman, a Los Angeles boy, has stopped every show with his piano, singing and comedy. He is in a class by himself. Finlay and Hall have a snappy "patter act." Francis Murphy is a keen humorist. Martelette's Marionettes are entertaining and amusing.

Hippodrome.

George F. Hall, the man who puts the feeling into the rough and beloved poems of Robert W. Service, is drawing huge crowds to the Hippodrome. "A Night with the Poets" is the caption of one of the most distinctly novel and artistic attractions ever presented on any vaudeville stage. It may be seen at the Hippodrome next week. An excellent dialect comedian, a splendid singer and dancer, a stage presence that will take him anywhere, Lew Ward is bound to be a winner. His impersonations have been chosen with great care and are exceptionally fine. Other acts are Bernard and Merritt, music; Thiesson's Pets, canines; Kelly and Davis; Shanghai Trio; Dreis and Zuhn in new songs.

"Mission Play."

One of the many novel and interesting features connected with the "Mission Play" at San Gabriel is the fact that the theater in which the performance is given was built especially for it, and is unlike any other playhouse in the world. From its exterior, set far back from El Camino Real, amid drooping pepper trees, the large wooden building gives no hint of the mysterious romance of its interior, which almost exactly reproduces the auditorium of an old mission. The bare rafters of the roof, which are bound together with ropes, first strike one's attention, then the tall altar candles lining the aisles claim the eye, then quaint tapestries and paintings, the small, round-corner pulpit, and finally the great golden curtain surrounding the stage itself.

Little Theater.

The Little Theater will resemble a convention of prominent movie stars on the coming Saturday, when a number of the film folk will give theater parties in compliment at the matinee of "Wan o' the Wood" to the little stars of the screen, who have broken from the movies into the "speakies," and have important roles in Frank Egan's artistic fairy fantasy for children, played by children, and written for the juvenile mind by Florence Willard. Ryerson and Mary Payson. Jesse L. Lasky, Cecil De Mille and William C. De Mille and families are to be hosts at numerous affairs in honor of the young Thespians. Among the kiddies of the screen in "Wan o' the Wood" are Gloria Joy of Balboa; James Bush, who played with Thomas Jefferson in "Rip Van Winkle," and who will join Mary Pickford; Elizabeth Kevaine, a protege of Pavlowa.

Clune's Broadway.

The popularity of Henry Walthall, sometimes called "the Booth of the screen," was never better evidenced than at Clune's Broadway this week, where he is drawing excellent houses in "His Robe of Honor." The attendance is particularly large because it is Walthall's first appearance on the screen in over a year. Thousands of admirers are anxious to see their favorite after his extended vacation. Likewise they are interested to see how a change of business connections affected his work. Walthall now heads his own company, which releases through Paralta. Miss Mary Charleson is a pretty and talented "comer" in films who deserves special mention for her strong work as leading woman to Mr. Walthall. Coming next week, beginning Sunday afternoon, Miss Dorothy Dalton will be starred in her latest big feature, "Love Letters."

Kinema.

Elsie Ferguson, in "Rose of the World," at the Kinema this week, is winning a host of admirers. In this excellent photodrama she finds herself in the strange position of not knowing whom to choose among three men, all laying claim to her love. Miss Ferguson portrays a difficult role to perfection, and the magic of her personality awakens the keenest sympathies of her audiences. "Rose of the World" has a happy and rather unexpected ending, which sends one away feeling he or she has been living for an hour "in a golden age." "Toto the Clown," both in his personal appearances and on the screen in his first comedy, has received resounding applause at every performance. Next week big Bill Hart will be seen as a two-gun Robin Hood in "Wolves of the Rail."

Grauman's.

All the fascination of a powerful drama of the screen, skillfully built around the personality of Pauline Frederick, filmland's great emotional star, combines with scenic, lighting and musical effects to form a cinema attraction of far more than the ordinary interest at Grauman's. Miss Frederick is starring in "Mrs. Dane's Defense," a play which affords her opportunity to outdo the triumphs of previous dramatic roles. This play, with a clever comedy and other attractions, will make up the programme for the remainder of the week and next Sunday. Beginning Monday, February 18, Douglas Fairbanks will make his first appearance at the new playhouse in "Headin' South," a thrilling story of the untamed Mexican border. This picture, finished last week, shows Fairbanks at his best.

Clune's Auditorium.

The third week of "Cleopatra" is following the whirlwind pace set by the two preceding weeks of the big Theda Bara-William Fox production, and the announcement that the engagement has been extended to include another week comes as a logical conclusion. Clune's Auditorium symphony orchestra, playing the song hit, "Cleopatra Had a Jazz Band," has scored the hit of its short career and is in danger of having its title changed from "symphony orchestra" to "jazz band." The orchestration for this selection was prepared by the leader of Clune's big musical organization, Nicola Donatelli, and is remarkably full of life.

Quinn's Rialto.

Rev. Paul Smith's moving picture drama of the fall of the Barbary Coast in San Francisco, "The Finger of Justice," has been booked to begin its local engagement at Quinn's Rialto on Saturday of this week. Recalling the anti-vice crusade carried on in San Francisco by the Rev. Paul Smith, the picture drama serves to bring home to those who see it the thought of a thorough and relentless cleansing of vice and of its inhabitants. A story of traps laid for foolish girls by those who profit by their downfall, "The Finger of Justice" is woven into a seeable and readable picture by Louis W. Chaudet, its director. The large cast includes Crane Wilbur, Jane O'Roark, John Oaker, Mae Gaston, Jack Lott, Leota Lorraine, and Jean Hathway. J. A. Quinn booked the picture by long distance, when it was learned that the production planned on for exhibition was not available.

Tally's Broadway.

Mme. Petrova, in "The Light Within," the first National Exhibitors' Circuit attraction at Tally's Broadway this week, affords the beautiful star a greater opportunity for a display of her wonderful emotional power than any feature in which she has appeared in some time. Next week's feature at Tally's will be "The Marionettes," a film adaptation of the well-known French play of the same name by Pierre Wolff, with Clara Kimball Young as the star.

Miller's.

Theda Bara, for the first time in her stage career, has become a blond. The world of playgoers is sure to be startled to see that in the latter part of "Du Barry," in which Miss Bara will be seen at Miller's, beginning next Sunday. She appears in long golden curls. It is unnecessary to say that they are extremely becoming to her. "Du Barry" is William Fox's latest triumph, which will be shown for one week beginning Sunday. For the rest of the present week, William Farnum, in what many of those who have seen it, declare is the greatest picture of the twelve-month, "Les Miserables," will continue to be the magnet.

Superba.

Monroe Salisbury, the well-known masculine star, who won fame as the star of "Ramona" before he was corralled into the Bluebird fold, will appear in person at the Friday evening show of "Hands Down," his latest feature at the Superba this week. Instead of making a speech or doing a vaudeville act, he will lay himself wide open to the questions of the audience, volunteering to answer any and all questions concerning the movies that the fans care to ask. "Hands Down" is proving a big success at the Superba. Starting Sunday, Herbert Rawlinson is featured as "The Crookedest Man in the World" in "The Flash of Fate," drama of the underworld.

Garrick.

If you want thrills, Dorothy Phillips, as "The Queen of Little Hell," will furnish them to you this week in "The Grand Passion," at the Garrick. "Little Hell" was the most lidless town of recent times, where society centered in a honky-tonk dance hall, and where, when a man ventured out after dark, it was a matter of speculation as to whether he would return alive or dead. The climax comes when the whole town is destroyed by fire, and the man who has been responsible for all its wickedness and sin comes to find that the love of a good woman is the greatest thing in the world.

Alhambra.

If you have an ache or a pain and feel low in spirits the Alhambra claims to have a cure beginning next Sunday, when, popular and full of "pep," George Walsh returns in his latest William Fox photoplay, "Jack Spurlock, Prodigal," a film adaptation of George Horace Lorimer's novel of the same name. "Heroic France," latest official French war film, real history in the making, and "The Heart of Romance," a pleasant, humorous bunch of surprises and thrills, played by a whole cast of favorites, including Juna Caprice and Bernard Thorton, is to continue to please for the rest of this week.

Palace.

"The Great White Trail," the State rights superfeature that has been playing to standing room only for long runs in the East, is now in Los Angeles and will be shown at the Palace commencing on Sunday. It combines a trip to the free-

AFRAID OF IT.

The leaven of democracy is beginning to work in new places. The German government has issued orders to its commanders in the field to "treat as violators of the law of nations" any aviator who is caught in the act of dropping copies of President Wilson's war messages on German territory. The German General Staff knows that those bits of paper are more deadly to militarism than high explosives. Its opinion as to the value of a scrap of paper has undergone a marked change since it so wantonly violated Belgium's neutrality.

German autocracy is beginning to learn that there is more power in an idea than in heavy artillery. The German government is itself violating the laws of nations when it refuses the right of prisoners of war to enemy invaders who simply scatter bits of paper over the German landscape. This very act is a betrayal of the heavy inroads that democracy is making among the German masses. If Germany were convinced that her cause is just she would evidence no concern over screeds that an enemy might drop from the clouds. Evidently the power of German militarism is breaking faster than we realize. Truth and justice are fighting on the side of the world democracies—and they are powerful allies.

TOO MUCH.

The failure of Dr. Garfield's heatless days measure, and its consequent cancellation, will render Congress less willing to enact the Overman bill. The stupendous powers conferred upon the President by that measure would enable him to make Secretary McAdoo the dictator of sea as well as land transportation, in addition to placing all authority over finance and industry in that officer's hands. He could make the Bureau of Mines and the whole mining industry subordinate to the Fuel Administration. He could divest the ten executive departments of their most important duties, putting those duties into the hands of men chosen by him who, unlike regular Cabinet members, would not have to be confirmed by the Senate, and the power of the purse could be taken away from Congress. It is no impeachment of the patriotism or the ability of President Wilson to say that it is undesirable to confer upon him the vast powers accorded by the Overman bill. The New York Times and other great newspapers hitherto devoted to the President criticise him for favoring this measure.

THE BARKEEPERS' RESOURCE.

In New Jersey the Democratic politicians are between the devil and the deep sea. President Wilson is in favor of the national prohibition amendment, but the saloon-keepers of Newark, Jersey City, Hoboken, New Brunswick and Trenton who are the financial mainstays of the Democratic organization say that if they are compelled to put up their shutters they will shut up, but will not "put up" their customary contributions to the party.

The Democratic leaders of New Jersey answer the wail of the barkeepers by calling attention to the fact that, even if prohibition is adopted, liquor may be sold by apothecaries, and they propose to tack on the closed doors of saloons the following:

"Hush, little gin mill,
Don't you cry,
You'll be a drug store
By and by."

The Times recommends that the barkeepers of Los Angeles memorise these lines.

SPIRIT MESSAGES.

The daughter of the late Mark Twain has taken legal action to prevent the publication of spirit messages alleged to have been received from the humorist by certain notorious mediums. Who can blame her? If Mark could once more get in touch with the old world he loved so well the first person he would doubtless want to talk to would be his daughter—and the last he would probably care to communicate with would be the fakers who try to commercialize his immortal soul. Twain and London and a few more of them have probably been laughing in their astral sleeves at the so-called mediums and psychologists of the planet earth.

SOMETHING WRONG.

The champion lazy man of Los Angeles, convicted of stealing, admitted in court that he has not worked six months in the last eleven years. He will probably be sentenced to a brief term in jail, in which institution he will be fed at the expense of the people, then turned loose to continue his method of earning his living by the sweat of other men's brows. There's evidently something radically wrong about our system of punishing such men as that. Anybody know a remedy? Don't all speak at once.

TOGETHER.

Did you ever stop to think that it takes a real man to stand what he doesn't like? Yet it is often necessary to do it. For instance, there is the Wilson administration. It is off in some things. But we are all for it, "endurin' ob de wah."

GET HURT!

Don't squirm over the payment of the income tax. It doesn't hurt half as much as you imagine. Besides, it is an honor to get it where it hurts for the sake of liberty.

OUR ARMY AND NAVY.

America is now one of the great military powers of the earth. In less than a year she has been transformed from a nation over-ridden by pacifists, with an army of less than 90,000 men and a navy of about 50,000, into a true State of Mars. An army of a half-million Americans is now on the battlefield of France, and our dreadnoughts keep their grim watch in the North Sea, while our destroyers and cruisers have taken over the patrol of the Atlantic from Newfoundland to Cape Horn and relieved the British for duty nearer home.

Figures and facts are solicitously shielded behind the hand of the censor who will not let it be known how many men are under arms or their precise disposition, who conceals troop movements and pretends deafness when asked regarding commissary supplies and munitions. But this we know, that sixteen great encampments sprang up as though by magic for the training of our troops, all being built in ninety days at a cost of $150,000,000. We need the word of no censor to tell us that the men poured into them by the draft have been transformed into stalwart soldiers. Look at them on the streets. They are there, erect, calm, confident, wearing on their bronzed faces the sternness of duty. It took six months of war for the gunners in Europe to lay down a perfect barrage—yet the first day they were formally tested the artillerymen at Camp Kearny laid down a perfect curtain of fire.

It is not, of course, to be said that Americans are so superior to the British and French that they do casually what our Allies paid in blood to acquire. All that they learned they have tried to teach, and the point is that our soldiers were quick and eager.

Nobody that will tell knows how many airmen or machines flying the colors of Columbia now wing their way against the Huns. We do know that airplane motors have been standardized, and that the Liberty motor is considered the best that the war has developed. We do know that in one flourish Congress appropriated a half billion last July for an air fleet and that factories have been working night and day to loosen those hawks against the double-headed—double-faced—Prussian eagle.

Our army and navy are not filled with the sweepings of the street. The choicest young men of the land are there, and in this modern army and navy a man must be more than a soldier. He must be a gentleman. Not merely a man of manners, but a man of brains, for warfare today is something more than hacking and hewing an enemy; no, it is controlling the finest of mechanical engines, the using of high engineering faculties, making the nicest of calculations and doing the work with incredible rapidity in the presence of extreme danger. Hourly in both branches of the service men are being discharged for such breaches of morals as were regarded—if not essential—at least as desirable in soldiers of the old armies. "The worst men make the best soldiers," said Napoleon. But it is not so today. The drunken, raping, looting Boches cannot stand face to face with the men of America's clean-bodied army, an army in which drinking is forbidden, looting brings imprisonment, and the death penalty falls upon such as so far forget themselves as to broach more shameful crimes.

In the great drive that the Allies will make with the spring on the German fronts, America's army and navy, now seasoned and ready, will be given a responsible part. Our troops are constantly moving across the sea. In what numbers is not known, but the movement is steady, and the thunderbolt that falls from America may be the deciding impact in crumbling the German lines, forcing the retreat into the heart of the Kaiser's own domain, and bringing him to the dust in plea for peace. But whether this war ends soon or late, America is into it for the finish; and of fears she has none, for the men that bear her arms are the chosen of her land, men of courage and men of honor.

RESTORE THE CONVENTION SYSTEM.

California's unfortunate experience with the direct primary is not due, apparently, to local political conditions, but to inherent defects in the direct primary system of selecting candidates for public office. Other States that adopted the direct primary plan have found that it militates against good government by supplying a breed of office-holders decidedly inferior to those secured through the convention system. There has been a distinct weakening in the mental and moral fiber of the State Legislatures, and a voice of protest is rising in the East that it has had a deleterious effect on the Federal Congress.

In the City of New York a reform movement has been launched to secure the repeal of the New York State direct primary laws. J. R. Hedges, one of the ablest constitutional lawyers in the country, is giving to the movement his ardent support. Mr. Hedges saw the direct primary used as the vehicle last year through which John P. Mitchel, New York's famous war Mayor, was defeated for re-election and Tammany Hall was returned to power. He has seen the gradual disintegration of the State Legislature and he holds that the taint is easily detected in New York's Congress delegation.

Commenting recently on the evil effects of the direct primary system Mr. Hedges said:

> Here the direct primaries have demonstrated their inefficiency. They have militated against the formation of public sentiment and at the same time increased the power of money. They have created a hypocritical condition of public mind in pretending to accomplish a good which they do not accomplish. They have failed to supply the machinery for good government.

Good government forces have secured the introduction of bills in the New York State Legislature repealing the existing direct primary laws and re-establishing the former convention system. There is but faint hope, however, for the passage of the bills this winter. Tammany Hall has aligned its minions solidly against any repeal of the direct primary law. In New York, as in California, they have proved to be of great advantage to those already in office and give to the tax-spenders additional powers to mulct the taxpayers. The effect of the direct primary on the cost of government is marked everywhere. Mr. Hedges observes that "For the public in general and the taxpayers directly it doubles and trebles the expense of the government and leaves nobody to whom the individual citizen may appeal to voice in official life his opinions, except a man who has brought about his nomination by publicity created fictitiously by financial means in his own behalf, or by a man who is under obligation to other individuals whose wide acquaintance enabled them, for the purpose of personal advantage in some form, to bestow the nomination on him."

Mr. Hedges goes to the extent of holding the direct primary responsible for "Our failures to obtain the desired efficiency in the prosecution of the war," and alleges that "All our troubles, in fact, have resulted in a measure from enfeebling the expression of vigorous public opinion, due to the direct primary." While this may be regarded as an extreme view, it is an undebatable fact that the present Congress is notably lacking in big men and that there was never before such a marked tendency on the part of each member to look to his own district rather than to the welfare of the country at large.

In concluding his arraignment of the direct primary Mr. Hedges says:

> In a convention or through the convention system, neither of which is perfect any more than human nature is perfect, the people have the best opportunity for making opinion, establishing responsibility and rewarding or punishing their representatives, according as they have carried out the mission for which they were elected. I think the pressing fundamental need of the country at this time is the repeal of the direct primary laws and the restoration of the convention system.

CHURCH AND SCREEN.

Instead of quarreling with the moving pictures, the church is gradually taking over some of the wholesome features of the screen drama.

It is easy to reach the mind through the eye, and a picture will demonstrate and clinch a truth as readily as an argument.

Numbers of large congregations in the East now have the flickering films on the regular Sunday bill of fare and one or two of the studios are making serious and pretentious effort in putting forth the purely religious drama. More than a year ago a life of Christ was filmed in the original setting of Palestine and it was put forth in a way so imposing and sincere that it commanded the wholesale approval of church and clergy.

Since that time biblical dramas have put forth the impressive stories of David, of Samson, of Joseph, of Moses, of Paul and other heroic figures of holy writ. They have been found successful in building up the Sunday-school and renewing the active interest of youth therein. It is not difficult to secure and hold the attention of Little Willie when he can see such husky battlers as Goliath and David getting together on the screen, and when he can see Samson carrying off the gates of Gaza it is not much trouble to get him interested in the rest of the Book.

Furthermore, there are educational and travel films that demonstrate the work and need of missions or illustrate sociological problems with which the church is concerned. There are clean and wholesome stories, as well as elaborate Christian allegories like "Pilgrim's Progress" that can be filmed for church consumption.

Camera men who are wise are enlarging the splendid possibilities for good in the flicker plays. There is money in it and the industry must open new aisles of endeavor to keep pace with the wish of the masses. When the film men realize that the Bible has been the one best seller for five straight centuries they will pay more attention to it. Also, when the church people all understand that there is nothing sacrilegious about the competent and conscientious filming of a Bible story it will be better for all concerned.

A closer working agreement between the church and the screen would be advantageous all 'round.

MOONEY AND THE PRESIDENT.

Mooney was duly convicted after a trial which even his own counsel has declared to be fair. There was never any moral doubt as to his guilt; further, it has been legally declared. Just what the United States government has to do with the case we fail to see. Its attempt to mix in it is an obvious intrusion and an impertinence and it should be treated as such. California would do well in this matter to imitate the hardihood of a one-time Governor of Oregon in reminding the President of the United States, who had ventured to interfere in a matter subject to State authority, to mind his own business.—[The Argonaut.

ALL FAIR IN WAR?

It is not a pleasant task to criticise the physical deficiencies of any man. These, however, are war times, and it is, therefore, appropriate to remark that if, for practical purposes, the inclosed cavity in the upper part of Mr. Bryan's head was anywhere near as large as the orifice in the lower central part of his countenance, it might be possible that he would talk less, and get more intelligence into what he does talk.—[San Antonio Light.

VALENTINE'S FLOWERS.

The New Way of Observing the Anniversary.

St. Valentine's Day, February 14, has been honored by general observance as a festival for such a long time that its origin appears to have been lost with the ages. Saintdom has canonized, according to records, no less than fifty-two Valentines, of whom two are commemorated on February 14. Of the two, Valentinus, presbyter and martyr, is believed to have been the personage honored by the custom of sending, on February 14, tokens of a sentimental character to those we love or admire.

This Valentinus was a prominent exponent of the doctrine of Christianity during the reign of Claudius Marcus Aurelius, in the second half of the third century. Efforts to induce him to return to the worship of the gods of his fathers proving futile, he was seized and thrown into chains, beaten continuously and finally beheaded, on February 14. Possessed of influence over a large following, his return to the idolatrous faith of the times was sought by the Emperor, and he was handed over to Caliphurnius, whose duty it was to effect the change. Caliphurnius employed one Asterius to bring this about, but Valentinus miraculously healed the blind daughter of Asturius, who became converted to the Christian faith and, with all his house, was baptized.

In Shakespeare's time the day's gifts, or tokens, were home-made effusions, more or less poetic, written on perfumed paper, gaudily decorated with hand-painted designs; or they were "posies" tastefully arranged, and composed of flowers symbolic of various sentiments. The wags took advantage of the day to send to persons whom they deaired to ridicule effusions that were anything but models of poetic elegance, and thus was introduced the "comic Valentine," which later was perpetuated in the "penny Valentine," still a feature of the trade productions for use on this day. Later came the flimsy lace and embroidery imitations in paper, bearing various designs in color, ribbon bows, dried flowers and other ornamentation, with ready-made verse, generally of a maudlin character. But flowers, either real, artificial, or represented pictorially, predominated in St. Valentine's Day tokens. Love sonnets and verse without flowers were as a cart without wheels, they would not reach their purpose. And these tokens came to be called of themselves "valentines."

With the passing of time the paper article has given way to the floral valentine, and St. Valentine's Day is recognized as a floral festival. No self-respecting swain will nowadays send a paper valentine to the object of his affections; instead, he hies to the florist and selects flowers, generally of a variety he knows will please the fair lady, and his sentiment is embodied in the flowers rather than in hackneyed verse.

Red is considered to be the real valentine color, the heart tint, supposedly expressive of fervor. Consequently roses, carnations, sweet peas, and tulips in the red shades, flowers commonly available at this season, are in great demand on St. Valentine's Day. Violets, symbolic of love, pansies, to convey the message "Think of me," and the humble forget-me-not, significant of true love, are other favorites. The symbolic meanings of the flowers available in February are to be found in the following list:

Rose—Dark red, admiration; white, I am worthy of you; yellow, let us forget; moss, confession of love.

Carnation — Pink, woman's love; red, ardent love; variegated, refusal; white, fascination.

Snapdragon—Presumption.

Calendula—Cruelty in love.

Daisy—Innocence.

Forget-me-not—True love.

Gardenia—Refinement.

Hyacinth—White, modest loveliness; blue, conspiracy; purple, jealousy.

Iris—My compliments.

Lilac—White, youthful innocence; purple, first love.

Lily—White, purity and sweetness.

Lily of the Valley—Perfect purity.

Mignonette—Your qualities exceed your charm.

Narcissus—Egotism.

Daffodil—Unrequited love.

Pansy—Think of me.

Orchid—You flatter me.

Tulip—Red, declaration of love; yellow, hopeless love.

Sweet Pea—False modesty.

Wallflower—Fidelity in misfortune.

Violet—Blue, love; white, modesty.

The sending of valentines by wire is now a common proceeding. Advantage is taken of a system of interchange of orders, established by reputable florists, to effect delivery of flowers at distant points, and the system is so perfect that a person in Los Angeles can, at an hour or two's notice, have a valentine of fresh flowers delivered in San Francisco or other city or town, as easily as in his or her own city.

DROLL STORIES.

Testing It.

An old lady from the country went recently to a State street store and began examining a piece of calico. She pulled it this way and that, held it up to the light in different positions, wetted a corner and rubbed it between her fingers, trying if the colors were good. Then she paused a while, seemingly not entirely satisfied. At last she cut off a piece with a pair of scissors she had dangling at her side, and, handing it to a tall, gawky-looking girl of 16, standing beside her, said:

"Here, Lizzy Jane, you take an' chew that, an' see if it fades."—[Chicago Herald.

Progressive Ireland.

An Irishman and a Scot were arguing as to the merits of their respective countries.

"Ah, weel," said Sandy, "they tore down an auld castle in Scotland and found many wires under it, which shows that the telegraph was knoon there hoondreds o' years ago."

"Well," said Pat, "they tore down an ould castle in Oireland, and there was no wires found undher it, which shows that they knew all about wireless telegraphy in Oireland hundreds av years ago."—[Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

Willie and the Goat.

"When the Germans reproach the Belgians," said Col. House, at a luncheon in New York, "when the Germans talk about guarantees against Belgian aggression, I am strongly reminded of little Willie.

"Little Willie ran howling with rage to his mamma.

"'That goat butted me!' he roared. 'The bad goat butted me in the stomach!'

"'Are you sure you weren't teasing it?' his mamma asked.

"'No, no!' wailed Willie. 'What would I tease it for? I was only just carvin' my name on its back with my new penknife.'"—[Washington Star.

A Strong Point.

Bazzot had noticed that his wife no longer called her gloves kids, but goats, and when he could control his curiosity not another day he asked her:

"What new-fangled idea have you women got now, I'd like to know?"

With a smile, the very sweetness of which completely disarmed him, she replied: "Mine are getting so old I'm ashamed to call them kids any more."—[Chicago Herald.

A Token of Other Days.

Reference at a dinner was made to camouflage when this happy little incident was related by Congressman Howard Sutherland of West Virginia.

James Reginald was engaged to be married to the beautiful Edythe Marie, when, through some trivial cause the usual lovers' quarrel ensued. Drawing herself to an imperious height, the angry charmer removed her flashing solitaire.

"Take back your ring!" she exclaimed, throwing the bauble at J. Reginald, "and in return I shall expect you to send me everything in your possession that belongs to me."

"All that I have, Edythe Marie," returned J. Reginald in a stricken voice, "is a photograph and a lock of your hair. I don't suppose you will want the photograph, but you might care for the hair as a souvenir."

"As a souvenir!" exclaimed the haughty beauty. "As a souvenir of what, pray tell me?"

"Of other days, Edythe Marie," answered J. Reginald, "of the time when you were a brunette."—[Philadelphia Telegraph.

Accommodating.

A cloth manufacturing firm received a letter from a customer complaining that some material had been received full of moths. By return post went a missive to this effect:

"On looking over your order we find that you did not order any moths. It was our error, and you will please return them at once, at our expense."—[Unidentified.

Weeping to Order.

Danny and Bobbie had been left in the care of their big sister while their mother went out. At bedtime they wanted to "stay up for mother," but their sister relentlessly put them to bed. Danny maintained a stolid indifference, but Bobbie cried lustily. Their sister listened at the foot of the stairs, hoping they would soon be quiet. At last Bobbie stopped, and the listener heard him say:

"You cry a bit, Danny; I'm tired."—[Tit-Bits.

FROM A BLOTTING PAD.

A good blotter is a very convenient thing to have when writing. But infinitely more needful is that which will BLOT OUT all SIN. Please consider the following:

Exhortation.—"Repent ye, and be converted, that your sins may be BLOTTED OUT (Acts 3:19.)

Prayer.—"Have mercy upon me, O God, according to thy loving kindness: according unto the multitude of thy tender mercies BLOT OUT my transgressions." "Hide thy face from my sins, and BLOT OUT all mine iniquities" (Ps. 51:1, 9.)

Fulfillment.—"I, even I, am He that BLOTTETH OUT thy transgressions" (Isaiah 43:25.) "I have BLOTTED OUT, as a thick cloud, thy transgressions, and, as a cloud, thy sins (Isaiah 44:22.)

How Blotted Out.—The blood of Jesus Christ alone BLOTS OUT all sins committed, and cleanses the heart from all unrighteousness. "If we confess our sins, He is faithful and just to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness" (1 John 1:9.) "The blood of Jesus Christ, His [God's] Son, cleanseth us from all sin" (1 John 1:7.)

"And true prayer and faith will keep all sin away."

But in order to have all our sins blotted out, they must be fully forsaken and repented of. Let no one think he can be saved from sin or get to heaven without this.

Just as I am, I come, dear Lord.
Relying on Thy blood and Word
To cleanse my soul from ev'ry spot,
Yea, ev'ry sin from me to BLOT.

A. W. ORWIG.

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE

cation today, at its regular meeting, elected Gustave Staubenmuller to act as superintendent of the city public schools, pending the election of a successor to Dr. William H. Maxwell, who has been retired with the title of superintendent emeritus.
The permanent superintendent a long sentiment has developed in favor of Dr. Albert Shiels, now the superintendent of schools at Los Angeles and formerly associated with Superintendent Maxwell in the conduct of the educational system of New York. Other names of educators prominently mentioned are those of Dr. A. Shallow and William L.
Ettinger, associate superintendents.
Dr. Shiels is favored as a man of experience, and one who is thoroughly familiar with the school system in this city, and who, above everything else, has been entirely free from factional identification in any of his educational work in New York.

augurated in this city by Dr. Shiels before he was called to Los Angeles, in 1911. His sponsors believe that he right place" in the superintendency at this time, to which they refer as a period of problems presented by the war, and the tangle of school affairs growing, the problem of Ameri-

canizing alien pupils, malnutrition and vocational training, and the need for a real merit system for the promotion of teachers.

The news that Dr. Albert Shiels, superintendent of the Los Angeles city schools, is a probable choice for the superintendency of the public

one of honor and responsibility at Columbia University.

"Dr. Shiels commands a salary here of $8000 a year. There are people who have looked upon this as a luxury, yet I will freely say that during the time Dr. Shiels has been our superintendent of schools, he has saved the school system ten times his salary, through economies he has put into effect and the rearrangement of work.

NOTABLE WORK HERE.

"At the same time he has introduced the merit system here on an established basis, and has instituted many changes that have proven highly beneficial to the school system. In the matter of finances, we consider him remarkable. Through his efforts changes have been made that have been the means of saving large sums of money, without curtailing the efficiency of the school system. His patriotic work has been such as to command attention from educators and school boards throughout the United States."

Dr. Shiels started on Tuesday for the East, having been granted a leave of absence by the Board of Education. The length of time of this leave of absence was not specifically stated, but it is understood that Dr. Shiels, in addition to attending the national meeting of superintendents of schools, was to take up various important matters for the Los Angeles city school system.

Dr. Shiels has not quite completed two years of the four years' term for which he was engaged by the Board of Education. While he was elected to the position for a four-year term, it is said that there is no written contract existing that would bind him to remain for that length of time. The developments in the New York school situation during the next few weeks will be watched with an especial interest in Los Angeles.

IS INVALIDED HOME.

Albert P. Shiels Returns to Los Angeles for Rest After Year in Army.

Albert P. Shiels, son of Dr. and Mrs. Albert Shiels, arrived last night from Camp Wadsworth, Spartansburg, S. C., having been invalided home from army service after a year's work. It is hoped that a few weeks of rest here will put him in fettle again.

Young Shiels was a member of Co. B, Seventh New York National Guard, and was with that company on five months of border service on the Mexican line. When the National Guard contingent was withdrawn, Mr. Shiels came to Los Angeles to join his parents, and for three months remained here as an employee of one of the large stores.

When the call for volunteers came, he was one of the first young men from Los Angeles to enlist, joining his old New York company and entering the regular army service. He was sent to Spartanburg, and there underwent intensive drill for sharp-shooting until his health became impaired.

WILL APPOINT A FOOD ADMINISTRATOR TODAY

MERRITT TO NAME SOUTHLAND OFFICIAL BEFORE HE RETURNS NORTH.

Ralph P. Merritt, Food Commissioner of California, will today appoint a man as head of the local office, one for the city of Pasadena and a Los Angeles County Food Administrator.

Frank H. Suffel, temporary head of the local organization, has made a canvass of the available men in the city who are willing to accept the office, and who measure up to the standards required. From this list Merritt will make his choice.

A conference was held yesterday afternoon of the Wholesale Grocers' Association when Merritt and Suffel spoke. The association adopted resolutions to police their trade, and immediately report any member or grocers known to be violating the rules laid down by Herbert Hoover.

Merritt will remain in the city until Friday night when he leaves for San Diego to confer with the Food Administration there. During his stay here, he will give several speeches. Tomorrow night he is scheduled to speak at Riverside, and Friday evening will address a meeting of all grocers, licensed and otherwise, at the Walker Theater.

BETTER ACQUAINTED.

Mrs. Kate B. King was granted a decree of divorce from George R. King by Judge Thomas yesterday, she alleged desertion, and what was expected to be a fight on the part of Mr. King, who had filed a cross-complaint, charging cruelty, did not create a ripple.

Mr. King asserted that he met his bride through a "get acquainted society." It was a "get together" affair, it appeared, as immediately after the wedding, Mr. King says, his bride named him and made life unhappy.

FEDERAL MEN'S SIDE IS HEARD.

Intelligence Head Tells of Inspecting Munitions.

Hadn't an Idea of "Getting" Walton or O'Connor.

Happened to be Around When They Were to Meet Zogg.

When the case against "Gen." Nicholas Senn Zogg, Norbert A. Nyles and Charles Draper, alias Joe Collins, involving charges of intent to violate the neutrality law, was resumed before United States Commissioner Hammack, yesterday, the government unexpectedly put on a number of witnesses before closing the case for the prosecution. It was announced at the final conclusion of the testimony that the defendants would go on the stand in their own behalf today.

A demand was made upon Capt. Samuel A. Gibson, who is in charge of the inquiry from the standpoint of the army, that he produce the originals of the letters, telegrams, etc., that were found in the raid on the house of Myles on the night of January 3, and a subpoena duces tecum was prepared and served on Capt. Gibson in the courtroom. Photographic copies of these documents were offered by the government, but the commissioner did not pass on their admissibility as evidence.

At the conclusion of the hearing, United States District Attorney O'Connor made a statement of his connection with the case. He said that when Zogg called on him for the purpose of seeing the guns in the basement that he was afraid he was up to some deviltry, and asked Capt. Samuel A. Gibson, who was in the office on other business, to accompany the party to the basement when Zogg and his friends returned that afternoon. He had in mind, he said, to ask C. L. Keep, agent of the Department of Justice, to go, too, but Capt. Gibson said the case was in his jurisdiction, and arrangements were then and there made for Capt. Gibson to go along. Mr. O'Connor said he asked United States Marshal Walton to accompany them, because he was afraid of Zogg, and did not care to go alone with him to the basement. This was before he had arranged with Capt. Gibson, and Mr. Walton went along, as the result of a previous arrangement, Mr. O'Connor had made with him.

BUREAU'S PART.

The activities of the local Army Intelligence Bureau in the case, and especially the part alleged to have been played in the exhibition of the ten Colt automatic machine guns stored in the basement of the Federal Building, as related by Capt. Samuel A. Gibson, was the interesting feature of the day.

Capt. Gibson, who is a West Pointer and who has been in charge of the Army Intelligence Bureau in this city since last April, said that on January 3, he was called to the office of United States District Attorney O'Connor on another matter, when Mr. O'Connor told him that "Gen." Zogg had called on him that morning to see the machine guns in the basement. He said Zogg promised to come back that afternoon for the purpose of seeing the guns, and that Zogg had promised he would bring with him a man from Mexico, who, he thought would identify them as part of a shipment that had been consigned to Angel Island, Mexico.

Mr. O'Connor told the witness, he said, that he proposed allowing Zogg to see them, and he asked Capt. Gibson to be present when Zogg returned with his party. Capt. Gibson was in civilian clothes. About 2 o'clock, word was brought that Zogg would not come, and Myles and Murray, the last attache of the Department of State, who was posing as J. C. Myles appeared. Capt. Gibson was introduced to Myles and "Myers," as a deputy United States Marshal.

Before going down stairs, Capt. Gibson said, they were joined by United States Marshal Walton, and the entire party—Gibson, O'Connor, Walton, Myles and "Myers" went to the basement of the Federal Building, where Walton opened one of the boxes containing a machine-gun. Myles and "Myers" inspected the weapon and talked about it, but the witness could not catch what they said, and in a little while they returned to the office of the United States District Attorney. The arrest of Myles was made at the Alexandria, shortly afterward.

DENIES INTENT.

Asked if he had gone to the basement for the purpose of "getting a case" on Messrs. O'Connor or Walton, Capt. Gibson replied in the negative. When asked if he had any reason to think that Messrs. Walton and O'Connor were acting in bad faith, Capt. Gibson replied "no."

Capt. Gibson said his office had been engaged for some time trying to locate a cache of guns and ammunition that they had reason to think was intended for shipment to Mexico, but he admitted he had found nothing except a small collection, consisting of some old guns and a quantity of ammunition. He admitted that Myles had been taken into custody by his subordinates, without a warrant.

STORY OF SEARCH.

At the morning session, for the first time the real story of the search of the Myles's house in Hollywood, and the names of the government officers whose actions were the foundation of the investigation before the Federal grand jury that resulted in a protest being sent to the War Department, were given to the public.

It came out in the testimony of Fletcher Bowron, who is connected with the army Intelligence Bureau, that the search of the Myles house was carried on by Sherman F. Kotter, also attached to the local bureau, and himself, on the night of January 3.

Mr. Bowron said that he had gone there for the purpose of locating Myles; that later in the day he learned that Myles was being detained by army officers, after which Mrs. Myles gave him permission to look through the place for incriminating evidence against her husband, whose innocense she loudly protested.

A number of letters and telegrams were found, all addressed to Zogg, who, the witness claimed, lived at the Myles house, although Mrs. Myles denies that. Mr. Bowron said that Mrs. Myles offered no protest to the search, but rather invited it for the purpose of clearing her husband.

A number of photographic copies of the letters, and telegrams, alleged to incriminate Zogg, which were found in the Myles house, were offered in evidence, but their admissibility is yet to be argued, and they were received for the purposes of identification only.

STRIKERS' HARASSING IS TOLD BY WORKER.

MAN SAYS HE WAS CALLED A SCAB WHEN HE REFUSED TO QUIT HIS JOB.

"Their conversation was pleasant?" queried Attorney Roche, one of the counsel for Golden Gate Lodge Local No. 3, in court in injunction proceedings for harassing the workers in the mill of the Southern California Iron and Steel Works, and interfering with the plant in getting out war material. Mr. Roche was referring to the attitude of certain strikers who had stopped George Block, an open hearth worker.

"You might figure it that way; I did not," was Mr. Block's reply. He said that the strikers asked him to quit and not "to pay any attention to the company's bull."

"A couple of men came by the mill," he testified in Judge Finlayson's court yesterday, "and called me ——— and a scab, scratching their faces as they did so."

This testimony is in line with the company's contention that the strikers tried to get the workmen to quit, thereby forcing one of the links in the allegation of a conspiracy. The strikers claim they simply used arguments and talked in a friendly way.

POSTOFFICE ROBBER IS GIVEN SIX YEARS.

Charles Evans, alleged to be an ex-convict, and who pleaded guilty to burglarising postoffice substation 38, No. 3723 Stephenson avenue, some weeks ago, where he secured $250 in cash and a lot of articles of hardware, was sentenced by United States District Judge Trippet yesterday to six years in the Federal penitentiary at McNeil's Island.

Evans is said to be one of the cleverest safe blowers that the local authorities have had to deal with, and the job to which he pleaded guilty was the work of an artist in that line.

HABEAS CORPUS DENIED.

Judge McCormick yesterday denied a writ of habeas corpus in the case of Tibroal Zapata, convicted in Pasadena of a misdemeanor and now serving a sentence in the County Jail. Counsel for Zapata attempted to show that Judge McDonald of Pasadena placed the case out of his jurisdiction when he sentenced the defendant after the two-day time limit specified in the statutes. The testimony showed that Zapata personally had requested the extension of time.

SPEND BIG SUM FOR JUST LEVY.

Correction of Thirty-two-Cent Assessment to Cost More Than Hundred Dollars.

The city is going to spend $150 rather than cheat a property owner out of 32 cents. The Council yesterday ordered the expenditure.

When the storm sewer was laid in Fountain avenue, the abutting property owners were assessed to meet the expense. One of them yesterday told the Council that she had been assessed 32 cents more than her neighbor across the street. An investigation showed that a mistake was made but could not be corrected unless the assessments are rewritten. This will cost $150, but the Council took the stand that the city should be right no matter how much it costs.

The Doctor's Advice

By Dr. Lewis Baker

The questions answered below are general in character, the symptoms or diseases are given, and the answers will apply in any case of similar nature.

Those wishing further advice, free, may address Dr. Lewis Baker, College Bldg., College-Elwood streets, Dayton, Ohio, enclosing self-addressed stamped envelope for reply. Full name and address must be given, but only initials or fictitious names will be used in the answers. The prescriptions can be filled at any well-stocked drug store. Any druggist can order of wholesaler.

Celia asks: "My hair is too oily and my scalp itches with dandruff, and of late it is coming out too much. What is a good treatment?"

Answer: Obtain plain yellow mineral from your druggist in 4-oz. jars and apply as per directions. This cleanses, purifies, cools and invigorates the hair and scalp, thus stopping the death of the hair. Dandruff and itching are at once relieved. Men and women all over the country now use it regularly.

"Worried" writes: "Have been doctoring for kidney trouble and now want your advice. Frequent desire to follow by burning pain and an very tender and sore over region of bladder. Also backache affects me dreadfully. Can hardly arise when I awake in the morning. Weakness, too, is a symptom."

Answer: "I think if you will take balmwort tablets regularly for a few weeks, your kidneys and bladder will become normal and such symptoms vanish. This is unequalled for sore complaints in any estimation."

NOTE: For many years Dr. Baker has been giving free advice and prescriptions to millions of people through the press columns, and doubtless has helped in relieving illness and distress more than any single individual in the world's history. Thousands have written him expressions of gratitude and confidence similar to the following:

Dr. Lewis Baker, Dear Sir:—We have used three of the medicines you advise, the double four, the essence mentho-laxene and the rheumatism prescription, and I want to say they all worked like a charm. They are the best I have ever used and I feel I could not keep house without them. I am very grateful and pleased to recommend any of these medicines prescribed. Very truly yours,

MRS. R. L. WHITED,
No. 3 Coleman St.,
Port Jervis, N. Y.

"Jane" says: "Some time ago I contracted a very severe cold and cough. I have tried many remedies, but they do not seem to help me at all. I wish you would advise me what to do."

Answer: What you need is a laxative cough syrup, one that will drive the cold from your system. The following prescription will check your cold and cough: Get a 2½-oz. package of concentrated essence mentho-laxene and make according to directions on the bottle. Take a teaspoonful every hour or two or until your cold is better. This will relieve you in a very few days.

"Manager" writes: "I have pains in my spine and frightful headache in back of head, fainting spells, twitching and trembling, nervousness, sleeplessness, loss of appetite and strength, and in fact, am a 'has been,' when it comes to performing accustomed work and duties."

Answer: In all such cases the assimilative functions have not kept pace with waste functions and a powerful harmless tonic treatment is needed. I find three grain cadomene tablets unexcelled and astonishingly beneficial in such cases and advise them for you.

Interested asks: "I am constipated, tongue coated, have headache, dizzy spells and indigestion sometimes. Please advise."

Answer: I advise that you begin using three grain sulpherb tablets (not sulphur.) These tablets are laxative, act on the liver, kidneys and bowels and tend to keep the blood pure by arousing the eliminative functions. Relief should follow quickly.

OVER-HOLIDAY EVENTS GIVE PRICES A BOOST.

Wall Street Gains, However, Later Cancelled by Profit-Taking.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—The stock market seemed to be favorably influenced in the early stages of today's trading by events over the holidays. Leading issues gained one to two points and a few specialties as much as three to four in the active first hour.

Later, the greater part of this advantage was cancelled for no apparent reason other than realizing from profit-taking and the failure of speculative interests to follow their initial operations.

There was a moderate accumulation of buying orders but this demand was soon satisfied.

The usual divergence of opinion prevailed respecting the significance of President Wilson's latest address and the bewildering changes in the Russian situation. In no important quarter was it believed, however, that peace prospects had been hastened.

Shipping owed their prominence and strength to specific causes, a three-point rise in Atlantic Gulf being accompanied by reports of forthcoming change of control.

Industrial Alcohol, General Motors, General Electric, Baldwin Locomotive, Crucible Steel and Royal Dutch Oil constituted the other strong specialties, very little remaining of their two-point to four-point gains at the end.

United States Steel reacted from its early gain of 1 1-8 to a slight fractional loss, other stocks of the same division moving with similar irregularity.

Rails, Canadian Pacific excepted, were heavy and dull.

Sales amounted to 476,000 shares.

The general bond list was steady but Liberty first 4's at 96.16 and second 4's at 94.70 broke to new low ground. Sales, par value, aggregated $4,625,000.

United States bonds, old issues, were unchanged on call.

HOTTER FIRE TURNED ON GERMAN NEWSPAPERS.

Suppression of "Germania" Demanded by California Loyal League of the Council; a Crisis Nears.

A FERVENT appeal was made to the City Council yesterday by Capt. C. A. Phelps, secretary of the California Loyal League, who was once Gen. Grant's chief scout, to suppress local newspapers that are printed in enemy foreign languages. Max Socha, editor and publisher of Germania, asked that no drastic action be taken. The matter was referred to the Public Welfare Committee for investigation.

Discussion of the various angles of the question reached fever heat and bitter feeling was engendered. Mr. Socha was granted permission to address the Council after a communication from the California Loyal League had been read. He defended himself and his newspaper by declaring that he is a loyal, patriotic American citizen and is living up to the letter of the law relating to the publication of newspapers printed in foreign languages.

Frequently Mr. Socha was interrupted by a dozen or more friends, obviously Germans though no doubt American citizens, who applauded his remarks. These same persons hissed Capt. Phelps when he said that the Germania does not advocate American patriotism and loyalty.

Capt. Phelps buried the charge that, in addition to the absence of patriotic sentiment in the columns of the Germania, odium rests upon that newspaper because of the recent appearance of a most reprehensible cartoon in the window of the building in which it is printed.

"If Mr. Socha is a loyal and patriotic American citizen, he would never have allowed that cartoon to be posted in his window," said Capt. Phelps. The cartoon depicted the German people as one big man, who was crippled, standing upon one wooden leg while Uncle Sam was pictured as trying to jerk the leg out from under him.

"Now I say that cartoon was un-American and unpatriotic. I have also seen the American flag displayed in front of the Germania building in a most disgraceful way. Instead of being above the Germania it is below it and I say that is not patriotic, for there is nothing so emblematic of Americanism right now as the Stars and Stripes.

"I have read the Germania carefully and have never seen one word of advice to its readers on the question of patriotism or loyalty. The California Loyal League stands for patriotism and loyalty and when a person is discovered who is not loyal or patriotic I would favor sending him westward from here—and that afoot—which means I would dispose of him in the Pacific Ocean."

Councilman Mallard said he believed that the agitation against the Germania was absurd. He said there are many local Americans of German descent who cannot read the English language and he believed they should have the privilege of reading the news in their own tongue.

Councilmen Olsen and Conrad took a similar view, but they were bitterly opposed by Messrs. Cleaveland and Conaway. Messrs. Reeves, True and Farmer expressed no opinion. Mr. Reeves, however, did assert that if an American were in Germany he would never see news printed in the American language in a German paper.

"I have taken this matter up with the Federal authorities," Councilman Conaway said, "and they told me the Council has a perfect right to take some action. I favor requesting the Germania to print its news in both the English and German languages.

Councilman Cleaveland, who is chairman of the Welfare Committee, and a member of the California Loyal League, said he had a resolution to present to the Council, but would defer it until his committee is ready to make a report.

Gabor Hegyi, who has been representing the Germania at the City Hall, announced yesterday that since the loyalty of the paper has been questioned he would divorce himself from it. "I am in favor of compelling all newspapers to adopt the English language during the war," Mr. Hegyi said. "I am too patriotic to have my sincerity questioned. I have five brothers fighting for Uncle Sam, and I do not propose to have my loyalty questioned. As a result, I am not going to have anything to do with a newspaper whose loyalty is under investigation."

The communication from the California Loyal League was in part as follows:

"The distribution of enemy papers constitutes a breach of the peace and is liable to lead to serious trouble, as an insult to loyal Americans who are opposed to having enemy papers published in Los Angeles while our men, women and children are being murdered by friends and supporters of these papers. Such acts are fast destroying the patience of our loyal people.

"Therefore, they demand that such publications stop. If not, indignant fathers, mothers, brothers and veterans of the Grand Army of the Republic will take such action as becomes necessary to stop such publications."

Maj. A. F. Judson said late yesterday that when the matter comes up again before the Council he will see to it that the chamber is not packed by pro-Germans, that pro-Americans will be in the majority.

"I will call upon members of the Grand Army and Spanish-American War Veterans to be present. Maybe the Council will see that we are in earnest in this matter," he said.

A demand that the Germania and other enemy language publications and books be removed from the Soldiers' Home at Sawtelle was made yesterday in a letter sent by the United Spanish War Veterans and their auxiliaries to the board of managers of the National Home for Disabled Soldiers. The letter, in part, is as follows:

"The books we refer to are German works, in German text, by German authors, which no one but a German scholar can read. The list of books comprises some ninety-six volumes. There also are circulars and periodicals, two German papers, the Germania, published in Los Angeles, Cal., and the Christian Apologate, from Cincinnati, O.

"There can be no reason for these in a library at a soldiers' home, for the reason that a man must be able to read and write the English language before joining the army or navy. When the public schools and libraries all over the land are placing the ban on this kind of literature a soldiers' home is the last place on earth for these books to repose.

"We, the undersigned, representing the United Spanish War Veterans and their auxiliaries of the Department of California, request that the subscription to the papers be stopped and that the books be removed and sold for the benefit of the Red Cross or consigned to the ash heap."

I Blame the Woman Who Lets a Man Drink Says Druggist Brown

Of Cleveland. He Guarantees a Simple Home Treatment Given Without the Knowledge of the Drinker.

Cleveland, O.—No wife has a right to let her husband drink; for alcoholism is a disease and a drunkard is a sick man, says Druggist Brown of Cleveland. A woman can cure this disease—stop a drinking husband in a few weeks, for half what he would spend on liquor in the same time. The habit can be broken and the disease cured. Thousands of cases prove it and every community has its reformed drunkard. Druggist Brown says the right time to stop the drink habit is at its beginning. Left to run its course it will deaden the fine sensibilities of the man you love. Begin with the first whiff of liquor on his breath but do not despair if he has already gone from bad to worse until he has become a rum-soaked sot.

Druggist Brown knows the curse of strong drink, for he himself has been a victim. A loving sister, without his knowledge or consent, rescued him from the brink of a drunkard's grave and for ten years kept her secret. She saved him from drink—rescued him from his own depraved, besotted self by giving him a secret remedy, the formula of an old German chemist. To pay his debt to her and to help other victims out of the murk and mire he has made the formula public.

Druggists everywhere dispense it daily as Prepared Tescum Powders, put up in doses. Get it of your own druggist and drop a powder twice a day in tea, coffee, milk or other drink. Soon liquor does not taste the same, the craving for it disappears, and lo, one more drunkard has been saved and knows not when or why he lost his taste for drink.

Warning Note: Tescum should be given only where it is desirable to destroy all taste for alcohol and all pleasure in its use. Those who encourage moderate drinking should not give it until the so-called moderate drinker reaches the danger line, as most of them do in time. Druggist Brown has such confidence in prepared Tescum Powders that he personally guarantees results or he will refund out of his own pocket the price charged by the dispensing druggist. It is sold in Los Angeles by the Sun Drug Co. and other druggists.

EARL OF DUNMORE TO BE VISITOR.

WEARS VICTORIA CROSS, ALSO DISTINGUISHED SERVICE ORDER OF ENGLAND.

Winner of the Victoria Cross in Afghanistan for saving a comrade at the peril of his own life and twice wounded during the present war, Alexander Edward Murray, eighth Earl of Dunmore, Viscount Fincastle, Lord Murray, V.C., M.V.O., D.S.O., will arrive here the 23rd inst., to speak before the Friday Morning Club, the British Ambulance Society and the Pasadena Board of Trade, according to word received yesterday by C. White Mortimer, the British Consul here.

The Earl of Dunmore was born in 1871, and in 1907 succeeded to a title, which was created in 1686. Norwegian Concern Sends a Representative Here.

To Confer with Local Packers on Sea Food Trade.

How War has Hit His Country is Graphically Told.

The second largest importing and exporting firm in Norway, the Great Northern Company of Christiania, capitalized at 5,000,000 kroner, is planning to enter the commercial field on the Pacific Coast.

This became known yesterday, when Haakon Vold, a representative of the Great Northern Corporation, arrived in Los Angeles to confer with the heads of several large fish packing firms at the harbor. It is in this line that the company proposes to embark.

"The war has changed conditions in Norway," Mr. Vold said last night at the Alexandria. "Many people have mistaken ideas about our country, especially in regard to our attitude toward the nations at war. If Norway or Sweden should enter either side, it would mean their ruin. She could be starved to death by Great Britain or conquered by Germany.

"The commercial and financial interests in Norway lean towards the Central Powers, because of old financial ties, but the common people are for the Allies.

"At the beginning of the war we had 2,000,000 tons of shipping. Today we have but little more than 1,000,000, and no nation has been harder hit by submarine warfare than we.

"We are giving most of our tonnage to the Allies. England has made a rule that our ships must make two trips for them, to one to our own ports.

"The cost of living in Norway is frightful. Coal is practically gone. When I left there three months ago it was selling for $100 a ton. Until last week there was an embargo on exports to Norway from this country. However, a commission of my countrymen, headed by Dr. Nansen, famous Arctic explorer, has succeeded in arranging an understanding and we are now allowed to import from this country 500,000 tons.

"I am making a tour of the United States and South America arranging for the opening of local agencies, and seeking to buy several manufacturing plants. We will have agencies in all principal cities, and have already taken over a number of plants. Southern California is famous for its fish packing plants and we destre to open a number on this Coast. We are now operating several on the Atlantic seaboard."

DISMISS CHARGES.

Supervisor Woodley will Not Have to Stand Trial on Charges Growing Out of County Deficit.

Supervisor F. E. Woodley will not be tried on the grand jury's accusation of misconduct in office. When the case was called in Judge Wellborn's court yesterday Deputy District Attorney Selph moved for a dismissal. The motion was granted.

In the previous cases Supervisor R. H. Norton was found guilty and ousted from office. A jury later found Chairman John J. Hamilton not guilty of the charges, which grew out of the deficit of $1,250,000 in the county's funds. The cases against Walter A. Lewis, dismissed County Auditor, and John N. Hunt, County Treasurer, are pending, on appeal to the Supreme Court.

Dist.-Atty. Woolwine said:

"I moved the dismissal of the action against Supervisor Woodley because I did not think it proper for me to put the county to the expense of a long and tedious trial in a case where, in my best judgment, a conviction could not be obtained. My reason for such belief is that the Hamilton case, which was stronger because Mr. Hamilton was in charge of the county finances, resulted in an acquittal. While Mr. Woodley is, by law, presumed to have knowledge of the condition of the county finances, at the same time he was not in charge thereof, but was assigned to another department."

OFFER TO HELP BUILD VESSELS.

Over Eleven Hundred Men Registered Here for Government Shipbuilding.

Los Angeles continued its good record yesterday in the enrollment of men for a public service reserve to be used to advance the government's shipbuilding programme. There are now 1185 Los Angeles registrations.

Trained mechanics are answering the appeal of the government representatives, and the local registration is carried on at the public employment bureau, Spring and Franklin streets. Clerical assistance has been provided, so that there may be no unnecessary delay in registration when the men appear at this office.

William L. Clark, superintendent of the bureau, said yesterday that while the response from Los Angeles men has been gratifying, that from the outside towns has not been what it should, and he urges that each community take steps to especially place this subject before the artisans there.

The allotment for California is placed at 11,500, and at least 5000 of these are desired from the southern part of the State.

JUDGE ADVISES HICKORY ROD.

Used Every Hour, it Might Have Kept Woman Out of Court.

Judge Dehy, who sat in the local divorce court yesterday, found a topic for a lecture in the case of Mrs. Irene Wolff. The evidence showed that Mrs. Wolff misstated her age when the marriage license was issued to herself and Louis Wolff. It also appeared that she had known him only about five months. She said her husband was cruel.

"The particular thing that was needed in this case," said the court, as he granted Mrs. Wolff a decree, "was a hickory rod on the wall with the inscription: 'I need thee every hour.' You committed perjury when you swore falsely to age. I would advise you to take council with your mother, if you desire to marry again."

OPENS TODAY.

Harry Fink's New Shop for Women has Homelike and Luxurious Air.

BY OLIVE GRAY.

From the facade to the most remote recess of the new shop of Harry Fink & Co., opening today at Nos. 635-637 South Broadway, a new note has been sounded—a something different, which makes for distinction.

"Homelike!" is certain to be the first remark made by feminine visitors; and could anything be more highly complimentary than this term applied to a place of business, and especially one which is intended to be a down-town home for women?

Atmosphere, that most difficult of all intangible things to attain, greets one at the very entrance of this charming shop.

Atmosphere penetrates each section, each room and extends to the fitting and work-quarters, and the welfare provisions for the employees.

The facade is striking and rich, being created by a lavish yet not over-ornate trim of black and gold Italian marble—a material difficult now to obtain, which frames the expanse of plate glass, forming the windows and the extensive arcades. Gray Tennessee marble is used for flooring throughout the arcades, and its delightful coloring is echoed in the velvet carpets paving the tearooms and covering the floors through the house. The arcades are octagonal in shape, and the ceilings here are finished in American walnut and handsome grain and surface. Inside, the fittings are in antique ivory, touched with white medallions, for contrast. American walnut in combination with antique ivory forms the finish to the stair rails. The consoles and mirrors throughout the first floor are a striking feature, elegant as well as practical, since they are arranged not alone for the use of patrons, but to form a screen for the stock, which reposes in dustproof closets at the back of these dainty trying-on tables. One entire half of the first floor is thus arranged for millinery, the other half being devoted to the stock of blouses, equally well housed; while at the rear ready-to-wear garments are located.

Luxurious davenports, easy chairs and other articles of furniture such as might be found in an elegant home, add to the inviting effect of the salons everywhere. Two interesting French tapestries, framed in the wall space near the entrance, invite attention, and in the beautiful French evening room on the second floor a set of chandeliers, imported by Mr. Fink for the especial purpose, diffuse light in a manner calculated to display colors to best advantage.

Everywhere, one is impressed by the good taste exhibited, the decorations being rich, yet chaste and restrained to the proper degree. Convenient fitting-rooms, adjacent to the mirrored salesnooks, render each floor attractive, and mirrors, placed at such angles as to give best and most thorough views of those examining garments, are noticeable. The grand stair way at one corner, on the first floor, is of unusual design, and the French rooms embody the Renaissance style of decoration, so engrafted upon the Greek as to prove quite classical. On the third floor, an unusual arrangement by means of which fitters may pass from workroom to fitting-room will prove a satisfaction. Light, airy and comfortable, the work-rooms are such as to enable best results to be attained by employees, who are still further considered in the commodious and well-equipped welfare quarters provided, close at hand.

The lighting system throughout the shop is in the latest mode and many dainty and well-furnished nooks for the repose and convenience of patrons, lend a restful air.

Mr. Fink's long experience in the selection of women's wearing apparel, leads to the prediction of unbounded success for the newly-launched enterprise, and the rare taste and judgment exercised in the arrangements throughout the shop add emphasis to this prediction.

MAKING CHEMICALS.

New Industries Developed by the War are Described by Prof. Maas.

"I believe that Southern California will become an important factor in chemical industries," said Prof. Arthur R. Maas, of the University of Southern California, addressing the Science Faculty Club of the university last night. "The European war has awakened us to our needs and also to our opportunities. We have crude chemical material waiting to be utilized and the consumer waiting for the product."

Among the principal new chemical industries developed here by reason of the war, Prof. Maas mentioned potash developed from kelp, the manufacture of permanganate, strontium nitrate, window glass, antimony oxide, oxygen, citric acid and other chemicals.

"Success cannot help but crown the efforts of the competent chemist who is awake to the opportunities," he declared.

Must Have Money at Once or it will Cost More.

Salvage of Present Posts to Repay the Loan.

The fund raised for the installation of a new lighting system on Broadway from the tunnel to Tenth street is $4000 under the lowest bid submitted for the contract. As a result, Fred W. Blanchard, president of the Broadway Improvement Association, yesterday urged the Council to appropriate the money, and the matter was referred to the City Attorney. If the latter rules that the Council has authority to provide the money, a majority of the members indicated that they will vote for the appropriation.

Mr. Blanchard explained to the Council that $62,000 had been collected through assessments to meet the expense of lighting the city's principal thoroughfare. Then bids were advertised for and the lowest was nearly $66,000.

"Our collections were based upon the estimate given us of the probable cost," Mr. Blanchard said. "We could probably raise the additional sum, but that would take time. The Keystone Iron Works has promised to accept the contract upon the bid submitted, but will not grant much more time. It is possible that if we should defer action a month or so and then readvertise for bids that the lowest bid would be considerably more than that presented by the Keystone company.

"What we want the Council to do is to advance the $4000. There is an emergency fund of $2700 which can be applied to the debt, and when the present lamp posts on Broadway are sold the city no doubt will get at least $50 each for them. This will much more than meet the discrepancy, and the Council will not lose a penny. All we want is that the money be appropriated right now."

The matter was referred to the Finance Committee, which later asked the City Attorney to give a ruling upon the question of authority to make the appropriation.

FIFTY YEARS AT THE CASE.

The body of Frank M. Dalmazzo, an old-time hand printer, was last night taken back to his former home in Vevay, Ind., an old-fashioned Indiana town along the Ohio River, for final sepulture.

For fifty years, or since 1868, he had worked at the "case," and the Great Proof-reader found him on his stool when death touched him.

He began work on the Vevay Democrat in the old steamboat days, when the Robert E. Lee and Natchez were making their historic races up and down the river, and when the little side-wheelers coming down from Cincinnati often got out and walked when the Ohio was low.

Just after the war, he climbed onto a stool in a country printing office to learn the boxes; later on became a practical printer, and in and out of season, while he married and raised a family, his fingers picked the familiar staccato clickety-click, in his stick. He belonged to the race of printers that they used to say could play a tune with the rattle of his rule in his composing stick.

He was the man who stood still. It was before the dream of the Goss and Hoe perfecting presses; when Mergenthaler had not yet conjured the linotype from his fertile brain; when there was no way of setting the type but to go to the case and set it.

When he became a "jour," the old Washington hand press was the pinnacle of the craft, and the man who could pull 1000 impressions a day was one of the wonders of the business.

His first copy was a piece of reprint about a derelict that had been discovered at sea, dismantled and abandoned by the crew, swept here and there by the seven seas. What a prototype of his career! The wreck at last found a snug harbor. And so did he.

He worked at the trade when every country office had a devil, and the office towel was never taken to the laundry until it could stand alone in a corner. He graduated as a master printer when he had to be capable of setting his three galleys a day, sweeping out the office, act as carrier on the route or write local or editorial matter as occasion required. He must set not only straight matter, but tabular work, and lend a hand at collecting subscriptions in time to pay off Saturday night.

He had no ambition to run for office, or even to own a country newspaper. He was satisfied to be a printer, and in his time had seen enough of the world's events to write a book—but he never wrote it. When old age came creeping on, he stuck to the case, and could empty stick for stick with any man on the job. He belonged to a past age in the newspaper business, and it was good enough for him. He was the representative of a class upon which journalism in this country built deep and strong its foundation.

Some years ago, he came with a daughter to Los Angeles. Here he followed his chosen profession. He knew nothing else, neither did he want to know any other activity. Fifty years a type-setter! Only a member of the guild knows what that means.

And so tonight, his last "line" has been "justified;" his "form" has been "revised" and "corrected," and he has a "clean" sheet to present to the searcher of all hearts. No "imposing stone" will be erected to his memory, but the Great Author has "blue-penciled" his "errors" and will see to it that his brave old soul escapes the "hell box."

Away With Your Sprays and Inhalers If You Want to be Rid of Catarrh

Deep-Seated Disease That Cannot Be Reached by Local Treatment.

When you hawk and spit until you almost strangle in an effort to get your breath, because your air-passages are all choked up with Catarrh, and your condition grows worse from day to day, you are about ready to realize that Catarrh is by no means a simple ailment.

If you have had the disease for any length of time, you have doubtless used enough treatment to convince you that you will not be able to find any lasting relief from the remedies that are so generally relied upon. Others who have been afflicted with Catarrh have used atomizers and sprays, ointments, salves, jellies and other local applications by the wholesale, without making the slightest progress toward a cure.

You are doomed to the same disappointment, if you rely upon the same misdirected methods of treating this disease, for Catarrh is too stubborn and deep-seated to be reached by medicated applications which are applied only to the surface.

Why not save yourself the expense and the delay of going [illegible] road, by discarding [illegible] plans of treatment [illegible] found to be [illegible] merit? Not only is Catarrh a cause of suffering to yourself, making you ill and repulsive to those about you, but it is a disease that should be considered lightly, for if it is not checked the lungs sometimes become affected, and always more serious than it is.

Catarrh is caused by a tiny disease germ in the blood. When they attack the membranes and air passages of the nose and throat, you can get rid of them by spraying or inhaling. They must be driven from the blood. That is why S. S. S. is used so successfully in curing Catarrh. This remedy is a purifier and cleansing the blood destroys every germ of Catarrh and cures the disease.

S. S. S. goes right to the very source of the disease, and begins its wonderful work as soon as you [illegible] yourself at last on the road to improvement. Go to your druggist today, and get a bottle today, and write us for special advice regarding your case, or you can obtain same by writing to Medical Director, Specific Co., 61 Patton Building, Atlanta, Ga.
